City Banks May Aid War on Safecrackers

Banks of Edmonton would be willing to co-operate in the war against safecracking robbers who have victimized many of the city's smaller business firms of late.

THIS WAS REVEALED Tuesday, following a warning from Detective Inspector Bert Petheram that it is unsafe to leave substantial quantities of money in the average office safe overnight.

The police inspector issued the warning following a safe blowing and theft from an unlocked safe, yielding $750 in two week-end robberies.

The inspector suggested later that money "would be safer at home where it would at least be

Situation Is Dark

Says Europe's Chaos Of Communist Origin

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. —(CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night warned the Commons that the situation in Europe now is "more threatening" than at any time since before the outbreak of the Second World War.

PAINTING a dark and dismal picture of the deadlock in the London meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers, he made the outright statement that the aim of the Communists as directed from Moscow was to keep up unrest in Continental Europe.

The Marxist theory, he recalled, was that there must be continual conflict between it and the capitalistic system and that satellite states must be built to protect the Communistic state.

There were indications, he said, that Russia was seeking the establishment of a central government for Germany which would be directed from Moscow.

He said the best way to aid the situation was to realize how really serious it was.

HE RECALLED to the House the unrest in the Far East, the "threat of war" in the Middle East, the disturbances in Greece and the present situation in France. These problems were baffling the best brains in the world.

As he turned to the current Big Four meeting in London, Mr. King said that, so far, their discussions "have not been very successful."

Begin ITU Hearing On Unfair Practices

By MAX HALL

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—One of the biggest and most complex of all Taft-Hartley cases—the American Newspaper Publishers Association versus the International Typographical Union (AFL).... opens today with two more publishers groups seeking to get in on the hearing.

Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, has charged the union with four "unfair labor practices" under the new labor law. The union, represented by Gerhard Van Arkel, former NLRB general counsel, denied the charges yesterday.

Denham took action Nov. 21 after the ANPA had filed similar charges with him.

Today the following groups were seeking permission to intervene in opposition to the union:

Cheaper Newsprint Is Said Essential

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The United States government should immediately develop forest resources in Alaska to provide sorely needed newsprint for American newspapers, Senator Wayne Morse (Rep.-Ore.) said yesterday in a Senate speech.

"Unless cheaper newsprint is supplied, several hundred small weekly newspapers will have to cease publication within a year," Morse said. "I call on the government to take immediate steps to develop a newsprint industry in Alaska. . . .

"Paper companies in Canada have announced increased prices for newsprint, the prices of which already were outrageous. The American publisher has no choice but to pay, for he has no other place to get his paper."

Schools to Close Dec. 23 to Jan. 1

School holidays for the Christmas season this year will start after the closing of classes on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 23 and will continue until Monday morning, Jan. 5, 1948, according to an official announcement Tuesday by Dr. W. H. Swift, deputy minister of education.

102 Lives Lost In Continuing Arab-Jew War

JERUSALEM, Dec. 9.—(AP) — Communal strife burst out anew this morning in all-Jewish Tel Aviv and first reports said three Jews had been slain, boosting the unofficial Palestine toll of dead for 10 days of Arab-Jewish fighting 102.

A POLICE ARMORED car was set afire during the fighting by a "Molotov cocktail," in what Jewish sources said was an operation of Irgun Zvai Leumi, extremist Jewish underground group, which has been in constant conflict with British forces.

Unofficial reports said a Jewish policeman had been wounded fatally in the armored car attack. Jewish sources said other armored

Senator J. J. Bench Is Dead at 42

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 9.—(CP) — Senator John Joseph Bench, KC, 42, one of Canada's youngest senators, died today after a heart attack. The senator for Lincoln had been ill about a week.

The St. Catharines native became a Senator Nov. 19, 1942, after unsuccessfully contesting the 1940 general election as a Liberal candidate for a House of Commons seat for Lincoln constituency.

He was appointed a temporary member of the national war labor board to represent employers Feb. 11, 1943, and resigned April 30, 1943. He served on several conciliation boards appointed under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act.

Urges Retention Of Mountain Tolls

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Retention of the Rocky Mountain "differential" on freight rates was urged before the Board of Transport Commissioners today by the City of Winnipeg and the Winnipeg Board of Trade.

W. P. Fillmore, counsel for the two bodies at the national freight inquiry, declared removal of the differential—an added charge on some freight moving over the Rockies—would give Vancouver

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Dec. 9.—(CP)—Mayor William Rae was re-elected to his second term as chief magistrate of Medicine Hat in voting yesterday. He polled 3,336 votes against his opponent's 2,295. He defeated the bid of Alderman E. W. Horne, Labor representative, and also led an independent slate of four men to victory over a Labor slate.

Trade Minister Says:

Trade Pacts Aimed Bolster Prosperity

"The federal government intends that prosperous conditions in Canada not only shall continue but shall increase, and the general trade agreements announced on November 17 betoken this," Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce and member of Parliament for West Edmonton, declared in an address delivered Monday evening.

MR. MacKINNON outlined the ultimate effects of these arrangements entered into with 17 other nations at Geneva, and said that Canada is now in a better trading position than ever before.

Text of Mr. MacKinnon's address entitled "World Trade and Canadian Prosperity" follows:

As you may know, I have just recently returned from a trade mission which has taken me over 25,000 miles—almost 20,000 by air, into many countries—old and new. Everywhere we went Canada stood very high and we Canadians were received with the utmost cordiality. Our war effort in every phase, and what we have done in price control and rehabilitation, certainly up to now in any event, has won the admiration of the world. I am thoroughly satisfied that this good opinion shall be retained.

MAY I JUST say how happy I am to be back in Canada and to realize, as I never did before, how

King Replies Sharply to John Bracken

Early Dominion Election Hinted by Prime Minister

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—(CP)—John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, last night in the Commons moved a motion of non-confidence in the government and promptly drew from Prime Minister Mackenzie King a retort that a general election "may come sooner than my honorable friend expects."

Mr. King's hint at a possible federal vote came as Mr. Bracken completed a fiery address in the Throne Speech debate by moving that the governor-general be advised that "Your Excellency's advisers do not possess the confidence of the Canadian people."

The prime minister said there was no better test of the people's confidence than an election and recalled that the government had won the last five by-elections.

"What about the sixth?" Mr. Bracken called across the floor.

"The sixth may be a general election and may come sooner than my honorable friend expects," Mr. King snapped.

"I AM NOT SAYING that it will," the prime minister went on, "but what I do say is that my honorable friend the leader of the opposition would be the most surprised and disappointed person were it to come at any time, in the position in which he is, as leader of his party, at the present time."

Mr. Bracken highlighted his address with charges that the government had been "wilfully neglectful" of the public interest, had "deliberately" sought to confuse the public, was guilty of "ill-conceived and hastily-prepared stop-gap measures" to right the economy and had led Canadian agriculture "down a blind alley."

Mr. King said Mr. Bracken had devoted most of his speech to the Geneva trade agreements and the import restrictions. Both matters would be fully discussed in the coming two weeks and replies would be made to Mr. Bracken's statements.

THE GOVERNMENT had been worried for some time about the heavy drain on United States dollar reserves but the government's representatives at Geneva had stated that there was a good chance of success if nothing detrimental was done. That was why the restrictions were not enforced until the agreements were reached.

Had they been applied earlier, they might have disrupted the Geneva negotiations which produced something that had not been equalled at any time. Agreements represented a "great triumph."

Once announced, the enforcement of the restrictions could not have been delayed because profiteers and others would have taken advantage of them for their own gain.

The restrictions were temporary.

MR. BRACKEN launched his attack on the government with the statement that its policies had permitted the credit and currency of the country to expand twice as fast as the production of goods.

First of the party leaders to speak in the throne speech debate, Mr. Bracken said that in recent years there had been 10 times more strikes than in the pre-war period. It was natural that there should be unrest under the present government policies which permitted prices to rise. As a result of the unrest more strikes were in the offing.

"The only permanent remedy is to get more production," he said. "Then we will put a stop to price rising."

Mr. Bracken opened his speech by welcoming Prime Minister Mackenzie King back from Europe and by congratulating him for having received the Order of Merit from the King.

HE SAID THERE was not a great deal in the Throne Speech read at the opening of the session, but that was understandable since there had been three throne speeches prior to the calling of parliament.

Mr. King had made one from London, Nov. 17, when he announced the details of the Geneva trade agreements. Finance Minister Abbott had made another the same night in outlining Canada's program of restrictions against imports. Reconstruction Minister Howe had made another a few days later in outlining how he planned to handle his end of the American dollar conservation program.

The Throne Speech said the Geneva pacts were aimed at expanding world trade, but a little farther on the speech said that Canada was going to place embargoes on certain goods. The speech said the government stood for relief to Europe, but that Canada was too poor to provide such relief.

THE THRONE SPEECH made no reference to the rising cost-of-living, to the unrest among farmers, to the plight of veterans or to the confusion and chaos in the business world.

The Throne Speech forecast there would be veterans' legislation and he hoped it would include increases for pensions.

There were three main causes for the difficulties facing the farming population.

The first of these was the failure of government planning. The government had undertaken to plan for agriculture and had "gambled" with the farmers' products. By the end of this year the loss to farmers in wheat alone would be $300,000,000.

He urged that the wheat farmer be allowed to take either the open

Election May Come in 1948

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's well-qualified hint in the Commons last night that a general election might come sooner than expected revived speculation that election might be called sometime in 1948, with Mr. King retiring as leader of the party.

The speculation was founded on previous statements by the prime minister that he would not personally contest another general election.

Machinery Official States:

Farming Practices Advance With Years

Canadian farming methods are changing on a Dominion-wide basis, with mechanization becoming general from coast-to-coast, C. W. Lockard, Hamilton, president of International Harvester Company of Canada Limited, said here Tuesday.

"PREVIOUS to the war only the large western farms were mechanized," Mr. Lockard explained. Now the farmers of all provinces are going in for modern machinery.

Business during the farm year of 1947 set an all-time record for volume and it seems likely that 1948 will set a new record, Mr. Lockard stated.

The demand for farm machinery of all kinds continues very heavy in Canada and export markets are also making big demands on production.

It has been the policy of the International Harvester Company not to increase prices because of the removal of price controls, the president said.

However, with removal of controls, prices of materials have risen sharply, particularly steel,

Heroic Saga of Arctic Ends In Death of Canon J. Turner

WINNIPEG, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Death ended the saga of Canon John Hudspith Turner today. The Anglican missionary, whose evacuation from an Arctic sick bed Nov. 22 became one of the storied exploits of army-air force rescue operations, died in hospital here at 5:30 a.m. MST. Dr. H. M. Speechly, medical representative of the Anglcian Church announced the death.

IT TOOK DEATH to balk the English-born canon's determination to return to his mission post at lonely Moffet Inlet, where he was accidentally wounded by a bullet Sept. 24. Polar blizzards for seven weeks balked efforts to evacuate him south from the Arctic diocese.

The eventual evacuation — an RCAF Dakota aircraft piloted by FO. Bob Race of Edmonton—came after the long Arctic night had shrouded the mission 400 miles inside the Arctic Circle in a wintry twilight of storms, fogs and wailing winds.

THE BULLET, which pierced his brain causing a skull fracture, subsequent meningitis, paralysis and other complications, was accidentally discharged when he was returning from a seal-hunting expedition.

Since 1929, save for two furloughs in England, he had spent all his time in the shadow of the North Pole.

CANON TURNER was no stranger to Arctic dangers. Once, during a trek across frozen wastes, his lead dog broke its traces and ran away. For five days he wandered in circles seeking the rest of his team. Finally, curled in a snow drift, hungry and with only snow to quench his thirst, he was found by an Eskimo.

During the winter of 1938-39 he covered 3,000 miles by sled and

Communist Labor Chiefs Call Off Strike

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS, Dec. 9.—(BUP)—Communist labor leaders called off the paralyzing French strikes tonight soon after Russia had severed trade negotiations with France and ordered out of Moscow a French repatriation mission.

BOWING TO A government ultimatum, the General Confederation of Labor (CGT) ordered workers of all trades to return to work tomorrow throughout France.

Capitulating to the stern demands of Premier Robert Schuman's government—demands marked by the beginning mobilization of 240,000 troops to enforce them—the confederation called a halt to the disastrous strike wave that brought France to the brink of civil war.

The decisive break in the national crisis was heralded by drastic Soviet moves of reprisal against France. The Russian embassy handed the government a note announcing that plans for the reception of a French trade delegation in Moscow were being cancelled, and a repatriation mission already there was being ejected summarily.

While the Russian counter-blast was attributed by the Soviets to French action against Russian nationals in this country, it appeared to be no coincidence that it was loosed while the fate of the Communist campaign against the government was teetering in the balance, at least for this round of the fight.

THE GOVERNMENT had made

No Decision Reached

See Partial Removal U.S. Cattle Embargo

By Hugh Boyd
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Having made a clear commitment to Canadian farmers to give them more money for meat, poultry and other grain-fed products, the government now faces the dilemma of how to do the job. No decision has yet been reached, but there is good reason to believe that when it comes, it will mean at least a partial lifting of the embargo on United States shipments.

COMPLICATING the matter is the fact that discussions with the British food delegation on revision of the food contracts are still going on here. Ottawa does not yet know how much beef, bacon, eggs and cheese the United Kingdom is prepared to take.

The British position in the beginning was that the U.K. did not want to take any food products at all except wheat, unless it could get a loan to carry them, and even then it was unwilling to take them, because of an extreme reluctance to expand dollar obligations any further.

With Canada likewise facing a dollar problem, the obvious course is to sell as much of our food products as possible to the United States and thereby get dollars. To this course the government is understood to be strongly inclined, even knowing that the immediate impact on Canadian consumers would be a rude one. The statement made by Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, in the closing hours of the Dominion-provincial agricultural conference last Wednesday, certainly prepared the Canadian people for such a course.

The accidental death of Peter Mielke, 59-year-old lumber worker from Provost, was reported by RCMP Tuesday. Mielke was killed Dec. 6 at Canyon Creek when a tree fell on him.

Palestine Strife

cars came to the scene at once and sprayed the street with bullets for 40 minutes. One of the other two persons killed this morning was a girl.

This morning's fighting in Tel Aviv followed a wild night during which a taxicab army of Jewish volunteers beat off a two-hour attack by Arab machine-gunners and grenade throwers in what some informants called the fiercest fighting since the United Nations decision to partition the Holy Land.

FOR A TIME, before the Arab attack was beaten off, wild panic gripped Tel Aviv and many residents fled their homes in blind fright. Hundreds of other Jews responded to couriers who raced through the city on motorcycles shouting for help in the threatened quarter of Tel Aviv.

Gunfire could be heard this morning from the old walled city of Jerusalem.

THOUSANDS of Jewish men and women, aged 17 to 25, crowded registration offices over the nation today for the Jewish Agency's "manpower census." Officials estimated 70,000 to 80,000 in this class would be signed up for "security forces and posts in the proposed Jewish state."

The Arabs said they also were stepping up their mobilization campaign.

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 9.—(AP) —The fight of the Moslems against partition of Palestine moves into the United Nations Security Council today with two Arab states demanding the right to participate in all debates about the turbulent Holy Land.

THE APPEALS of Egypt and Lebanon for non-voting seats on the 11-country council, the U.N. enforcement arm which eventually must assume responsibility for maintaining peace in divided Palestine, apparently were the diplomatic side of the Arab League program to prevent creation of a Jewish state in Palestine.

The two letters to the U.N. reached here almost simultaneously with an announcement in Cairo, where the seven-member league met, that plans were being drafted for "immediate" action to oppose creation of a Jewish state in Palestine.

the prospects of agreement suggested by a series of Soviet moves last night.

These were the moves:

1. Foreign Minister Molotov submitted at the urging of State Secretary Marshall a comprehensive set of proposals for the economic unification of Germany.

2. When Marshall asked whether acceptance of the Russian demand for $10,000,000,000 in reparations for Germany was a "condition" for Soviet acceptance of German economic unity, Molotov said it was not a "pre-condition." Instead, Molotov felt that reparations and economic unity should be considered simultaneously — a statement which was interpreted in some quarters as indicating a readiness to bargain.

3. Molotov did not reject outright, as he had at the Moscow conference, proposals by the western powers that in any economic zone merger various occupation deficits should be shared. The question could not be considered until each power determined what the costs would be.

4. Following yesterday's session a Soviet official told reporters it had been a business-like meeting and that progress could be made where there was a will to agree.

In taking this stand, Mr. Fillmore disagreed with Alberta and British Columbia submissions in the case, which had called for levelling of the mountain tolls before any freight-rate increases were granted.

He also urged retention of the Winnipeg-Fort William "constructive mileage," and artifically-shortened milage for rate-making purposes west of Fort William, Ont. Alberta had opposed this system.

"We are opposed to any disturbance of the freight-rate structure," the Winnipeg lawyer said."

which has gone up an average of $7 per ton.

AS A RESULT of this and other factors there will likely be a revision of farm machinery prices.

"At the same time our company believes that any price is too high that can be reduced," he said.

Noting that the position of farmers is better than it has been in years, Mr. Lockard said he "cannot see any necessity for a major depression, although there may be a recession."

Present high demand for things will not continue indefinitely and there will likely be a "slowing down," he explained.

Accompanied by G. C. Hoyt, executive vice-president of the company, Mr. Lockard visited offices of the firm here.

He also conferred with W. C. Ranson, Edmonton branch manager.

The company has adequate facilities in Edmonton and does not plan any expansion here in the near future.

2. Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, represented by Thurman Arnold, former United States court of appeals judge. (This group also has filed a separate case against ITU.

Government lawyers have estimated that the hearing may last two months.

Meantime, troubles between ITU local unions and newspaper publishers were spreading. Printers on the Norristown (Pa.) Times Herald went on strike yesterday. Six dailies in Chicago now are in their third week of publishing by a photo-engraving process because their printers are on strike.

Denham has accused the national union and its top officers of the following unfair practices:

1. Trying to cause publishers to discriminate against non-union workers by seeking to impose a new "closed shop."

2. Causing publishers to pay for services which are not performed.

3. Restraining publishers in selection of their own representatives (foremen) for adjustment of workers' grievances.

4. Restraining employes in exercise of their legal rights.

cil should defer action until the result of this conference had been made known.

Ald. G. E. Gleave then moved that consideration of the project be deferred to the first meeting in January, or if the necessity arose, at a special meeting of council.

Gordon Clarke and George Prudham, representing the Edmonton Home Builders Association, appeared before council in support of proposals seeking civic assistance to enable veterans to participate in the integrated housing plan.

Mr. Prudham agreeing that rental housing was necessary suggested that the city confer with the Dominion authorities seeking the discontinuance of sale of the war-time housing homes erected in Norwood and Westwood and the earmarking of these homes for rental to veterans. He could see no logic in disposing by the Dominion authorities of low rental houses which the city already had subsidized, when at the same time the city was being asked to subsidize another federal low rent project.

He asked that consideration be given to the association's proposal that the city subsidize integrated housing on the same basis as proposed under the federal low rental plan or make loans in needy cases to veterans desiring to purchase a home, but who are handicapped by the amount of down payment.

its final offer to the fewer than 1,000,000 workers still idle of the 2,000,000 who had been on strike. They could accept it by tomorrow, or else. A cabinet minister warned them that 210,000 troops soon would be ready for action against saboteurs and Communist riot squads.

Shortly before 7 p.m. (1 p.m. EST) the CGT leaders issued the capitulation order to the strikers. The surprise move came as Schuman was mustering forces and plans to crush finally the national stoppage of three weeks.

Foreign office sources said that after action against Soviet citizens in France, the government asked Moscow to replace its repatriation commission of military representatives with a civilian commission.

THE RUSSIANS STALLED and then refused, informants said. This morning the French foreign office made it known that the Soviet repatriation commission would be forced to leave France tonight. The Russians then called a press conference and announced they were withdrawing their mission. Meanwhile Moscow was announcing its decisions on the trade and repatriation delegations.

"Unsafe" Safes

better guarded than in an unattended store."

I. J. Hutton, chairman of the Edmonton clearing house, said that some arrangement might be worked out with banks for safeguarding daily business receipts.

So far Mr. Hutton said, banks here have not been approached with regard to staying open at night and he doubted if such a plan would find favor with bank managers as it would mean bringing staffs back at night.

HOWEVER, he stated that if some organization wished to send a letter to the chairman of the clearing house, he would be glad to see that the problem was brought before the association for discussion.

Suggestion that money would be safer at home than in an office did not meet with the approval of several Edmonton businessmen who were interviewed Tuesday by The Edmonton Bulletin. Actually the views of those obtained were against the proposal, the contention being that if the practice became general there would likely be an increase ina rmed robbery of residences.

Following are some opinions expressed to The Bulletin:

Chris Diamond, manager of Johnson's Cafe:

In businesses where fairly large sums of money are taken in after banking hours, I believe it wise to leave the money in the office safe until next morning. If a businessman were to take sums ranging from $250 to $1,000 home in his pocket, the risk would be greater than leaving it in the office safe.

Personally I would not care to risk carrying big sums on my person late at night.

W. J. Williams, MLA, executive-secretary of Edmonton Canadian Legion Branch No. 24:

I cannot agree that it is better to take the day's receipts home than to leave them in the office safe. If this became a common practice the underworld would soon get wise. Then we would see loss of life in private homes in addition to property losses.

If businessmen who cannot bank receipts after hours take the precaution to insure, and responsible police protection is provided, it should not be necessary to carry receipts home each night.

Jasper avenue merchant:

There are arguments both for and against the suggestion of Inspector Patheram in my opinion. Burglary insurance rates are pretty high and many of the smaller businesses do not seem to warrant insurances on fairly small sums left in office safes overnight. For that reason it would seem wise to take this money home each night as the police suggest. On the other hand, such a procedure might lead to an outbreak of street holdups and break-ins of private residences. It's quite a problem.

Music store manager:

My reaction is: What's the use of having a safe if it is useless for safeguarding money overnight? I think the office safe is the proper place for receipts you cannot get to the bank before closing time. With proper protection from the law, safe blowing should be kept to a minimum.

tells what happens
IF YOU CANNOT PAY ANY MORE PREMIUMS

Some people fear the future more than the present!

Occasionally they hesitate about buying more life insurance because they do not know if they can keep up premium payments "if a depression comes". Such hesitation is unwarranted.

If, after the policy has had three years' premiums paid, some economic situation prevents you from paying a premium, you can arrange to have your insurance continued in force by:

1: Having the premiums paid by a loan against the policy . . . This will be done automatically if a premium is not paid within thirty days of its due date . . . While the loan, with interest, is a charge against the policy in event of death or maturity, the loan value is generally increased by reason of the premium so paid; or

2. Converting the policy into a "paid-up" policy for a smaller amount on the same plan, but without any further premiums being required; or

3. Securing a "term insurance" policy (free from premium payments) for the full amount (less any loans) for a stated period—after which the insurance ceases entirely; or

4. Obtaining the "cash value" through the discontinuance of the policy contract.

The first option enables you to keep your policy in force so that you can restore it to its original condition by repaying the premium loans with interest . . . The other three give you a return on your investment in premiums, either in proportionate protection, or full coverage for a limited period, or in cash payment.

If you have "put off" buying life insurance recently because of your personal uncertainties—why not let us together examine how your life insurance premiums can safeguard your future, "stormy weather" or not!

Trade Minister's Address

really fortunate and favored our country is, among the nations.

I was proud too of the very important place in foreign trade matters occupied by Alberta men who are serving Canada abroad. In South Africa, particularly, this country is represented by Trade Commissioners and staffs the members of which, I am sure, are not surpassed in efficiency and effectiveness anywhere in the world. The key men in this splendid organization are University of Alberta graduates—John English, of Edmonton and Calgary, at Johannesburg and Stan Allen, of Calgary and Banff, at Cape Town. Again, in Lisbon, another University of Alberta graduate, Lester Glass, Calgary, is doing great work as Canadian trade commissioner and consul general in Portugal. In Belgium, Hector Allard is Canadian Charge D' Affaires and is most highly regarded by the diplomatic community in Brussels and generally everywhere by everyone. Mr. Allard was on the staff of the University of Alberta prior to his appointment to the diplomatic service.

In South Africa, in addition to our trade representatives, the landscape itself brought Alberta vividly to mind. This was especially true of the high veld country of the Transvaal. There is extensive treeless rolling country, with both the coloring of land and sky strongly suggesting parts of Southern Alberta. Incidentally at Bulawayo in Southern Rhodesia among those greeting the Canadian Trade Mission was a former city assessor of Calgary, Jim Clarke, proudly wearing a new ten-gallon stetson, and asking about the Calgary Stampede. In almost every place visited I met men and women who either knew Edmonton as former residents or who had relatives in or near the city. The same was true of our journey in Europe. In Athens I met, for instance, former Edmonton men of Greek origin, Gust and George Brown, who are very successful businessmen in that very beautiful and world-famous city.

I AM REFERRING to these experiences and impressions as an indication of how numerous were the reminders of my home city and province in distant parts of Africa and Europe.

After such an extensive and instructive trip one cannot escape the conclusion that Canada is richly blessed in every way. We have our problems, and they are real. But other countries have their problems too and in most cases their difficulties are SO very much greater and more complicated than ours here in Canada. Some of the countries I visited excel this Dominion in, possibly, one or two special lines of production. But I saw no country with anything approaching the wide variety of natural resources, the long record of political stability and other advantages on which Canadian progress is so soundly based. Incidentally my colleague Mr. Gardiner, the minister of agriculture, is announcing increases for bacon and other farm products.

On my return, factual proof of Canadian prosperity soon made it self evident to me. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics had just issued a report showing that in the ten years—1936-1946—farm debts in the prairie provinces decreased from a total of $368,394,318 to $162,250,000. In Alberta the total amount represented by farm mortgages and loans had dropped in that period by, roughly, half—that is from $114,000,000 to $59,000,000. This is a really remarkable record and expresses, more than any words can do, the generally improving conditions our farm producers have been and are experiencing.

IT IS INTERESTING as well to note another Bureau of Statistics report which reveals that in connection with prices for farm products, the index figure for Alberta has risen from a low of 84.3 in 1935 to a high of 195.2 in September of this year. The upward trend of these prices has been especially steady and sustained since 1941 when it was 108.8. This index is based on the figure 100 covering the period from 1935 to 1939.

More prosperous conditions are evident in other lines of Canadian activity as well. For example, the total wages, salaries and other labor income of Canadians in August of this year amounted to $517 million. Continuing an almost unbroken series of increases since January of this year, the August total was $5 million higher than the corresponding figure for the previous month. It is $98 million more than in August one year ago. These greater payments of labor income took place in the manufacturing and construction industries particularly.

THE FEDERAL government intends that prosperous conditions in Canada not only shall continue but shall increase. The general trade agreements announced on November 17th betoken this. These arrangements entered into with 17 other nations at Geneva place Canada in a better trading position than ever before. These agreements, I believe, mark a turning point in our commercial history. At Geneva the large trading nations of the world and many smaller ones decided to base national and international prosperity on expanding trade.

It is true that on the same date the government was compelled to apply special short-term restrictions on the use of U.S. currency and on imports from the United States. Nevertheless, the federal government's long-term tariff policy is predicated on the eventual maximum possible freeing of trade between the nations. Only in that kind of world can Canada continue to prosper. In fact one of the important features of the emergency policy relating to the United States is to encourage a greater volume of Canadian purchases from other countries. In a word, the Federal government is seeking to bring about NOT a lessening in the sum total of Canada's foreign trade but rather a better balance of that trade generally.

THE GENEVA agreements are of the utmost importance. Canada's treaties made there will be considered at the present session of parliament. New treaties of trade were entered into with both the United Kingdom and the United States with whom Canada transacts three-quarters of all her trade. In fact, when the full story becomes known, it will be realized that Canada made success at Geneva possible by breaking the deadlock which had developed in these trade negotiations between Great Britain and the United States. I may say that the Department of Trade and Commerce was very ably and very substantially represented on the Canadian delegation to this conference.

Through these arrangements Canada has recovered complete control of its tariff policy. We revert to the position prevailing before 1932. Canada can now allot or reduce its British preference rates as required without consulting other governments. The Geneva agreements which came into effect on January 1st, 1948, affect a broad list of Canadian products of farms, mines, forests, seas and factories. A very great achievement particularly from the standpoint of Alberta and the prairie provinces, has been the enlarging of the United States market to wheat and flour, cattle, meat products, coarse grains, lumber and dairy products once the provisions of these trade arrangements come into full effect.

THE UNITED STATES has agreed to cut their duty on Canadian wheat from 41 to 21 cents a bushel, and the quota provision which limited their imports of Canadian wheat to 800,000 bushels annually, has been removed. Commencing next April 1st the United States quota on Canadian live cattle is increased from 225,000 head per year to 400,000 head. Tariff rates have also been substantially lowered in the case of beef and veal. The duty against our barley is lowered from 15 cents a bushel to 7½ cents a bushel, and oats from 8 cents to 4 cents, and on rye from 12 cents to 6 cents per bushel.

A great new impetus will be given the western lumber industry also. The United States has reduced by half the duty on Canadian sawn and dressed planks of fir, spruce and pine, as well as on other types of timber. Actually, the opportunities for Alberta and western Canada are without parallel. Our present exchange problem is severe but represents a temporary phase ONLY in the postwar period of widespread adjustment. I am convinced that the peoples of the world are moving towards a better, more prosperous future. The growing tide of international commerce cannot be kept stemmed for long, by bookkeeping difficulties or money-changing formalities.

In concluding these remarks I can do no better than to quote from an editorial which appeared the other day in an Eastern Canadian daily newspaper. The quotation is particularly significant because the newspaper in question is very definitely opposed politically to the federal administration. "To sum up," this editorial states, "there is no need for any of us to strike our breasts—and less to feel sorry for ourselves. We Canadians remain the world's most fortunate people, incredibly prosperous and happy in relation to our brothers. Our challenge today is to remember THAT—and to be proud and glad to play our part as responsible world citizens."

Election Hint

market price, now around $3 a bushel, or the Canadian Wheat Board price of $1.35 a bushel instead of the present system where the board buys all wheat available.

A SECOND CAUSE of disturbed agriculture was the government's recent action in removing price ceilings and subsidies applying to feed grains. He estimated farmers who sold barley and oats before the removal of ceilings lost $21,000,000.

He said the government's policy of selling farm products to Britain at fixed prices had kept the farmer to one price line for the things he sold and another for those he had to buy, such as the rising feed costs. The result was that farmers were losing money daily and getting out of livestock.

"The Transitional Measures Act—more properly called the totalitarian powers measure—would be in effect until March 31 in any event. There is no time now to discuss this measure."

Similarly, the Agriculture Products Act terminated this year "only because we are here in December instead of January."

Mr. Bracken criticized "what the government chooses to call its emergency legislation."

"I CRITICIZE the government first for delay in attacking this matter, a delay which has multiplied the severity of the problem many times, a delay which is inexcusable.

"We say they were done behind closed doors, under a piece of legislation the government told us it would not use for that purpose."

Mr. Bracken said he had urged the prime minister to call a conference of empire countries on the dollar crisis but this had been ignored. There had been many similar warnings. Britain and other countries had taken action before this.

"Why was there delay?" asked Mr. Bracken.

He said it was a matter of "political expediency." The government was willing to "sacrifice" the interests of the nation. It was "insincere" as well as "incompetent."

HE SAID THE government's offer to pay a subsidy of $7 an ounce on gold produced in excess of production for the year ended June 30, 1947, would have a bad effect on the industry. Either everything would have to be concentrated on the development of new mines or existing mines would have to concentrate on their high grade ores. There should be a free market for gold or an industry-wide subsidy.

He said that under government policies the pulp and paper industry had found it impossible to operate at former price levels. A series of price increases probably would allow Scandinavian countries to re-establish their pulp and paper markets in the United States. The increases likely would induce Americans to boost domestic production.

HE SAID THE "crowning folly" of the dollar-saving program was the arbitrary powers given Mr. Howe. If such powers were necessary they should have been embodied in a bill that could be passed on by the representatives of the people. The government had been "wilfully neglectful" of the public interest. It had delayed action on the important issues before the country and had "deliberately set out to confuse the issues in the eyes of the public."

Through its actions the government was rapidly losing Canada's overseas markets, markets which had been built up over the years.

He urged that all embargoes against the export of Canadian goods to the United States be removed. Canada's troubles resulted from a scarcity of U.S. dollars and yet the very market which could provide them was closed to Canadian farmers.

"I WOULD CORRECT a mistake made in July, 1946—when the value of the dollar was changed," said Mr. Bracken.

The Dominion would have to make herself less reliant on the markets of the United States. Canada would have to produce and provide facilities for processing her products.

DESTINY HAS CAST THIS COUNTRY IN A Larger ROLE...

"No thinking person can avoid the conclusion that the logic of world events is rapidly forcing a further shift of economic and political centres of gravity from Europe to the New World.

"Whether we like it or not, destiny has inexorably cast this country in a larger role.

" . . . at the present time, to countless people across the water, Canada with its unique combination of resources, living space and its traditions of freedom and democracy, must appear a veritable land of golden opportunity.

"To put the matter bluntly, Canadians are at this moment helping to support, at a low level of existence, many of these people who could be and should be carving out a fuller life for themselves in this country in which there are far too many empty spaces.

"If ever there was a time when Canada should press forward with an immigration programme, that time is now. Such a policy must be vigorous, imaginative . . . and highly selective from the standpoint of occupation and fitness for citizenship.

"An influx of new skills will be of immeasurable aid in bringing about the further development of our industrial capacity."

Another Fatality

It is, of course, the function of a coroner's jury to fix the blame, if any, upon any person who contributed to the accidental death of the 77-year-old man who was struck by a street car on Jasper avenue Sunday afternoon. There can be no doubt that the inquest officials will perform their duty fairly and conscientiously. Pending a verdict which may clear up the matter, Edmonton people will wonder how two street cars could bear down upon an aged and obviously confused man without taking fuller precautions than the mere blowing of a whistle.

No charge of negligence is implied. This particular case might involve circumstances which made the accident completely unavoidable. The coroner's jury will decide that point.

But, in a general way, officials of the Transit System could very profitably urge greater caution on their employes, and on thoughtless passengers who divert a motorman's attention from his work.

There are too many prolonged conversations between the drivers of street cars and buses and their passengers and friends. All too frequently these conversations continue for a mile at a stretch. Now it may be possible for an expert driver to converse with his friends and at the same time operate a vehicle efficiently. But it is a matter of grave doubt.

Certainly the social angle of public transportation should take second place to care and safety—particularly when the lives of old and helpless people are involved.

National Culture

The appointment of four Edmonton men to the Canadian Foundation, a national institution for the promotion of the cultural development of Canada, will afford wide satisfaction in this community, not only because it gives this city a voice in a very important activity, but because a splendid selection has been made.

The present federal Government has interested itself commendably and intelligently in the cultural status of the country and during its term of office has given valuable encouragement to all those movements tending to develop a national art and art appreciation.

The Canadian Foundation is one of those movements. Its efforts, along with those of others, will promote, not only a national culture, but a national personality and a more distinct Canadianism.

It is a vital undertaking. And Dr. Robert Newton, Dr. G. F. McNally, Mr. H. R. Milner, KC, and Mr. E. E. Poole have the experience and ability to make Edmonton's contribution to the task really noteworthy.

Both Countries Threatened

Senator Taft says the Republicans in Congress have planned a list of anti-inflation measures, which they want enacted before Christmas. The Democrats are urging enactment of President Truman's proposed legislation which has the same objective.

Thus at Washington as at Ottawa the rising cost of living is a matter of official anxiety, as it is a matter of concern and hardship to the people of both countries. One basic cause is the same on both sides of the line. Scarcities overseas are drawing supplies out of this continent so rapidly that a partial vacuum is being created. Prices are going up as a natural result.

This drain must become stronger as stopgap aid to Europe, and perhaps also to China, increases the outflow of food and other consumer essentials. That is why Washington is pondering stop-inflation measures, and why Ottawa is bound to study safeguards also. It is an open question whether hunger in Europe will not put both Canada and the United States back under some kind of price-restricting legislation.

At both capitals the inflation-threat should be dealt with promptly. Popular willingness to share up with Europe's underfed millions will be strengthened if there is confidence that resulting shortages of supplies at home will not be allowed to send prices spiralling from the already too-high level. Fear of that happening could dampen public support for further efforts to help the distressed peoples.

Fighting Europe's Recovery

Foreign Minister Molotov bluntly announced at London that Russia is going to take $10,000,000,000 of reparations out of Germany, whatever misery the extraction may inflict on the German people and however the recovery of the country may be retarded by the removal of materials, machinery and supplies.

It is not to be said off-hand that this huge sum would more than compensate Russia for the over-all damage it sustained from the Hilter invasion. But Russia was not the only country which suffered damages from Hitler's war. Nor was it the country that suffered most heavily. And it has already received compensation for a good share of its war loss by the annexation of territory and the confiscation of German factories.

How much reparations is due to Russia and to each of its allies should be worked out by friendly consultation of all the claimants, and in light of the fact that nothing more than a percentage payment can be collected from so hopeless a bankrupt. That is not Mr. Molotov's plan. He says Russia is going to grab what it wants, leaving its allies to take what they can get.

If the other allies followed that plan — which they are equally entitled to do — the long result is obvious. Germany, denuded of the power to revive industrial production, could play no important part in bringing about the recovery of Europe. General Marshall stated a truism when he said there could be no such thing as economic restoration of western Europe without a revival of German industrial and commercial activity.

No one knows this any better than Mr. Molotov. That is why he threw his reparations declaration into the Big Four conference. Russia does not want western Europe to rebuild its shattered economy, and does not intend to allow it to do so. What Molotov said in words at London is what his Comintern agents are saying by campaigns of disruption in France and Italy. The objective of Moscow is to keep the non-Soviet countries simmering in destitution and discontent.

One Last Hope?

Twenty years ago the city council of Kitchener, Ont. decreed that every taxpayer who went to the polls and voted at the civic elections should receive a rebate of one dollar on his tax bill. Whether that drew the delinquents to the polling booths is not stated in the brief despatch which carried the news of the experiment across the Dominion.

Edmonton's city council might find out what reaction, if any, followed this offer of a bonus for voting. The problem of getting the voter to vote is as baffling here as it can ever have been in Kitchener. If dollar tax-rebates solved the problem there they might do as much here. Anyway, about every other kind of inducement seems to have been tried, and they all failed. Maybe rebates would do the trick.

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENTS — by Webster

Democracy and Revolution

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

It is dubious whether parliamentary Democracy will survive much longer in Continental Europe.

Government must be able to maintain order; see that the services necessary to comfort, or at least to existence, function; and defend the nation from foreign subjugation. Otherwise it is no government.

All constitutional freedoms depend upon the existence of an orderly society. A society in a state of anarchy is not free, even if everyone is free to shout his head off in the streets or the press. For the basic freedom is freedom to live. If the people cannot get bread or coal because the bakers will not bake, or the miners dig, or the transportation systems move essential goods; if workers cannot get to where they earn their livelihoods or enter the places if they do get there; if even the young cannot learn because the schools are closed; if, in short, every avenue of existence is blockaded, the people are entirely deprived of freedom.

THOMPSON

These people are in a worse condition than if they were in a state of slavery. For some sort of existence is ensured for slaves, and some sort of order, but in anarchy nothing ensured. Any form of social order is better than none. Even tyranny is better than anarchy. Tyranny is the rule of the one or the few over the many; but anarchy is the tyranny of the many over each other, and no rule at all.

COMMUNIST theorists have plotted the overthrow of states and societies by internal blockade. Just as a nation forced to import the bulk of its food and raw materials can be defeated in war if ships can be prevented from reaching its ports, so even a nation rich in resources can suffer all the effects of war and defeat if the internal flow of its services is halted. If miners lay down their tools, dock workers refuse to unload ships, trains stop in the sheds or on the rails, the exact parallel to a state of siege is created.

This is the new form of war, waged with the instrument of the organized proletariat—the workers. First deprived by one means or another, largely psychological, of real control over their mass decisions, they are called out on strike by leaders who wish to use them for a consciously designed end: the capture of political power. When led by fanatical and unscrupulous men, they become private armies, to be maneuvered from strategic point to strategic point against the economy.

This is "class" war, though it is waged by powerful minorities controlling more or less blind masses, who are called into action on such narrower matters as wages and working conditions. By this manner the state can be overthrown, conceivably without bloodshed. This is what is plotted in Italy and France.

THERE IS, however, a weakness in this strategy. The armies of the workers, drawing the cordon of the blockade, also are the victims of the blockade. They are not outside society assaulting it, but inside society pulling it down upon their own heads. An isolated strike is an assault by a relatively small number on a single strategic point. In it the strikers have a chance to win by embarrassing the stable areas. But a general strike, or simultaneous strikes directed at key points in the economy so as effectively to disemploy all workers, is an assault by everybody against everybody. Since each person is part of everybody, no one escapes injury. The masses thus are mobilized against the masses.

Now if these masses clearly and consciously concentrate on a single objective—such as: throw out the government; all power to the Communist party; and all hail to our great leader, Stalin—then they are likely to win, and by winnnig accept new leaders and lift the siege. In Italy and France, however, the leaders cannot mobilize under such slogans. They must mobilize on demands for better wages and working conditions. But when everything is paralyzed there are no wages and no working conditions at all. The workers themselves then are besieged and starving, hoist on their own petard.

WHEN SUCH a point is reached the question of "democratic" procedures becomes minor. The siege has to be lifted. The minority who created it—the leaders of the workers—cannot lift it because that would be defeat. But it must be lifted—constitutionally if possible, unconstitutionally if necessary. For the nation has to be returned to law, even if to arbitrary law; and has to be saved, even if saved from itself.

Always that person, group, or party becomes the hero of the nation who lifts the siege. It rarely is a "democratic" government which does so. For Democracy, whether people realize it or not, assumes and rests on peace.

IN WAR—whether it is international war or civil war, whether an assault by armed violence or an assault by economic weapons—the inchoate cry is not for democracy but for authority, not for freedom but for salvation.

Air Track to Havana

By F. B. WALKER

The air track between New York and Miami is now a well beaten path as commonplace and travelled as a suburban sidewalk. It has become a streetcar run flung across the sky where even the toothpaste smile of the air hostess is no more inspiring than its colored counterpart on the billboards.

The aeroplane apparently has come to stay and there is no more magic in it. In one generation—hardly more — man has cleared the mystery from the clouds. But if there is no more wonder in the machine, there is still much in being hurled from winter to summer and summer to winter in a matter of minutes, in being carried in a few hours from a country of pine and spruce to a land of palm trees and tropical blossom.

NEW YORK WAS winter—cold, grey and uninspired. Yesterday's newspapers flopped and fluttered down the caverns which the New Yorker uses for streets. The dirt blew and the neon lights provided a shabby backdrop to what surely is the ugliest "big" city in the world.

Newark airport was grey and windy also and against the low clouds, the tall silhouette of New York looked like the despairing effort of man in a dungeon to fight his way upwards to the sun and the sky. There were no leaves on the trees and where there was water it looked thick and soupy.

The plane took off with the dawn breaking away to the east and the west still black and cold. The lights of the city shone below and then the darkness of the open country, relieved by silver patches where there was water and the thinner black of cultivated fields.

Baltimore and Washington were much the same and then in full daylight the run over Virginia and the Carolinas. Now there was no more winter. Somewhere on the route, the sun has stood firm and held a thin line against the hard cold of the north. The earth down below was red now, looking as rich as the ravages of man has made it poor.

THE INSIDE channel to Florida —millionaire's lane — began to appear and far under the silver wing of the plane the countryside was showing orchards of citrus fruits and the graceful, sweeping shadow of the palms.

At Miami, the dress was tropical, open shirts hanging outside cotton trousers and the same blondes, who pushed their unhappy way down the sidewalks of New York, pushed their way down the sidewalks of Miami, looking in their tan almost gay and certainly healthy.

Even the endless rows of vacant faces, jaws moving slowly like resting cattle in a pasture, took on a little meaning.

It rained in Miami as it rained the first night I was in California but it was over soon and the air was soft and heavy. It was pleasant to sweat.

From Miami, it is 90 minutes to Havana. If Florida looks like a Hollywood movie set, the capital of Cuba looked like the real thing. Here was heat, pounding on the sidewalks, as relentless and permanent as the heat of Florida seemed temporary and fake.

The taxi driver said he had just driven a delegate down to his hotel.

"Strange man," he said, "he brought his wife to Havana."

He had, too.

Smiles

"I told Jim all my past history yesterday."

"What did he say?"

"Nothing. He just took out a comb and smoothed his hair down. It was standing on end."

Two Irishmen, newly arrived in America, decided to try their luck in a New York restaurant. The waiter brought them their food, at the same time placing a dish of horse-radish on the table.

Neither Mike nor Pat had ever seen horse-radish before, and Mike took a mouthful. Immediately tears sprang to his eyes.

"Waht's the matter, Mike? Why are you crying?" asked Pat, in great concern.

Mike didn't want to admit his mistake and replied: "I'm crying because I just thought of my poor grandfather who was hanged."

Pat sympathized, and then tried the horse-radish himself. In no time at all he, too, was crying.

It was Mike's turn to ask the reason for the tears.

"I'm crying," said Pat, "because they didn't hang you at the same time as they hanged your grandfather."

Mrs. Brown was turning out her wardrobe and putting on one side things she had no further use for.

"Would you like my last winter's hat, Mary?" she asked her daily help.

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Brown!" Mary answered. "That's the one my boy friend likes me in best."

A man stood for several minutes watching a brawny carman tugging at a heavy box almost as wide as the doorway through which he was trying to move it. Presently the onlooker asked: "Like a lift?"

"Thanks, I would," the other replied, and for the next five minutes the two men, on opposite sides of the box, worked, lifted, puffed and wheezed, but the object of their attentions did not move an inch. Finally the helper straightened up and said between puffs: "I don't believe—we can—ever—get it—out."

"Get it out?" roared the carman, "why, you idiot, I'm trying to get it in!"

Having chosen the cloth for a new suit and had his measurements duly taken, the young man said apologetically to the tailor:

"I'm afraid I shan't be able to pay you for three months."

"That's quite all right," the tailor said amiably.

"Oh, jolly decent of you!" said the young man. "When will the suit be ready?"

"In three months, sir," was the reply.

Mrs. Young, passing the fishmonger whilst out shopping, stopped to make a complaint.

"Those soles I bought from you yesterday, Mr. Jones, were not fresh."

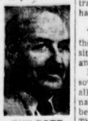
"Well, ma'am," answered Mr. Jones, "that's your fault, not mine. I've offered them to you every day this week, and you could've 'ad them on Monday if you'd liked."

Let's Try ABC

By ELMORE PHILPOTT

Canada's minister of agriculture, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, certainly hit the nail on the head when he said that Canada was more interested in keeping a sure market for her goods than in a seat at the peace table for Germany.

"I think that if other countries want to be kind to us they can buy our food and make it possible for others to buy it."



PHILPOTT

It is foolish to blind our eyes to the fact that we are heading toward a nasty economic crisis in Canada. Because of our shortage of U.S. dollars, Canada has had to decree drastic restrictions on Canadian spendings in the U.S. We have already lost the British market for much of the foods we formerly shipped. There is more than a hint that the cuts so far made by Britain may be minor as compared with others she will be forced to make against Canadian purchases in the near future.

SURELY IT IS NOT beyond the statesmanship of the leaders of the U.S., Britain and Canada to work out some money arrangement which will stave off collapse.

It is not true that the physical shortage of goods is the root cause of the economic troubles of the Western nations today.

The British never needed Canadian fruits, fish, grains, etc., so much as they need them now. They were never more willing and eager to buy them. Yet because of what is called the "$ crisis" Canada gets caught both going and coming. We have to cut down on what we want to buy from the U.S., and we hear that Britain has to cut down, more and more, on what she wants to buy from us.

All this because the Western nations are trying to work an outworn system of rival national monies in the international field.

SUPPOSE THAT the U.S., Britain and Canada were to sit down and say " let's have one money system for all of us; let there be one international dollar freely circulating within and between all our countries."

If we did that, there would be no danger of the particular kind of crisis that is now looming up.

For what IS looming up is NOT the kind of crisis that hit the world of 1929.

There is no such thing as "overproduction" of goods, even what can be sold at sufficient profit under our present economic system.

What is looming up is a shortage of enough American money in foreign hands to keep international trade moving. (One poker player has all the chips.)

THERE IS LITTLE prospect that our three nations' leaders will sit down, in the immediate future, and adopt one money for all of us.

Even in a world where "national sovereignty" has brought mankind all too close to final annihilation, nations are not willing to quit being a law unto themselves. They cling to their separate money manipulation power more jealously than to any other prerogative of government, because all real insiders know, all too clearly, that control of the money system is the key to control over the lives and destinies of the people.

But even if it is too much to expect for 1948, that our countries will adopt one money system, there is another simpler emergency way in which our leaders could end the international money famine.

THE UNITED STATES could say to Britain and Canada:

"Your credit is okay with us. We will accept payment in your money for what you buy from us."

Canada could say the same to Britain.

Such a move would enable Canada to keep right on buying from the United States all that we want and need.

It would be up to the United States to keep the balance of payments even, either by buying more goods in Canada or by making larger investments in Canada.

Likewise in Canada's trade with Britain.

Even if we had to hold in the bank—for years to come—British money which we took in payment for foods, etc., sold to Britain that would be in our interest as well as Britain's.

Such a plan might well be called an ABC (America, Britain, Canada) key to by-pass the monetary trouble that otherwise will trip us up in the next few months.

MARGARINE

Editor, Bulletin.—It gets my blood to the boiling point, when I read about people wanting margarine in Canada. I ate so much of that when I was in England that I can still taste it. Canadians or anybody who asks for margarine, should go to England, and eat enough of it. If butter is a dollar a pound, I'd rather pay it than swallow margarine. I ate margarine till I left school at the age of 14, and that's long enough.

WELFARE INQUIRY

Editor, Bulletin.—At the courthouse in Edmonton an inquiry is in progress as to the efficiency and ability of the Provincial Welfare Board and its administration, and the results that accrued to those that are subject to and dependent on the Welfare Act of Alberta for subsistance and health.

To these, and all others present, His Lordship Chief Justice Howson in his statement of his personal concept of the scope, power, and authority conferred on the commission, of which he is the chairman, was as follows: "To take evidence upon, and concentrate on, the allegations, accusations, and charges arising out of the report of Dr. Charlotte Whitton as submitted to the IODE and the press, against the administration and officials of the Provincial Child Welfare Board, and no other.

In other words this inquiry is taking up the valuable time of a provincial chief justice of the Alberta supreme court as well as two other court judges, and the time and eloquence of three or four qualified counsel, plus the time of Dr. Whitton and numerous other witnesses.

It would appear this inquiry is not in the interests of or, for the benefit of the 500,000 citizens of Alberta who pay the rates and taxes to keep full the provincial coffers, nor is it for the purpose of considering the interests or needs of the children, the mothers, the old, aged, and sick, the blind, or any other peoples who are subject to, or, dependent on the Welfare Act of Alberta.'

In fast this inquiry it seems, can only interest itself in a continuation of the status quo ante bellum.

Just a few days ago in the course of the milk inquiry Mr. G. M. Blackstock, KC, of the Utilities Commission stated that "today it was not only necessary that justice be given through our courts, but that the people must know that such justice was handed down, and upheld by those courts."

In these days of fast changing concepts, ideologies and actions in our world of today, the faith, confidence, and intelligence of our peoples must not be impaired, lost or underestimated, if the continuity of our present democratic way of life is to be maintained, our Canadian courts of law and justice have a serious, critical and far-reaching duty to perform. The future of our Nation, and even of the world, may depend on the construction put upon the decisions of our courts by those peoples.

Those in high offices, should never underestimate the intelligence of their people; or overestimate the shrewdness and ability of the officials of the courts or the government.

ENGLISH CONDITIONS

Editor, Bulletin—A letter entitled "English Hardship" in The Bulletin of November 20th has just come to my notice and I feel that I cannot let it go unanswered.

Since I did not come to Canada from England until two months ago the writer of the article and I must have experienced similar difficulties of heat privations during the winter of 1946-47, but it must be remembered that England suffered unexpected hardships last winter which are unlikely to recur. The intense cold weather during February and March, 1947 was almost unknown in Britain and the final blow was, of course, the shortage of fuel. But one should not forget that this was only for a six weeks period, and I think it will be admitted that most people can rise to emergency conditions for a short period of time.

Gas and electricity supplies may be slightly cut but it is predicted that it will not be to such an extent as last year. When I left Britain in October, winter supplies of fuel were being delivered and the electricity cuts were negligible.

Admittedly the present day diet has not the variety that once we enjoyed but all are getting the necessary vitamins to counteract severe weather.

During the spring and summer of 1947 I met a number of Canadians visiting the British Isles and their reaction to the food situation was that although it lacked the variety and luxury one is accustomed to here in Canada, they found it quite sufficient.

I do hope that such letters as B.R.'s will not discourage people from going to Britain as they do need Canadian dollars and it is still possible for one to have the most enjoyable holiday over there.

CORPUSCLES LACKING

Editor, Bulletin.—Gazing around a crowded tram at so many standing women and seated men, a reason for it all suddenly occurred to me.

Maybe these men are incapable of standing due to a lack of red corpuscles. Possibly their mothers neglected their vitamin supply in their youth.

They looked like the type who will sit out their lives watching the rest of the world go by, with a grudge against humanity; while the red-blooded women successfully stand on their own two feet in a competitive business world.

dog team and ran afoul of two scourges of the north—scarcity of food and an epidemic which killed all but two of his dogs. But after five months' absence he returned to his mission with the two remaining dogs and the remnants of his equipment sewn up in the skin of a polar bear he had shot to feed himself and his dogs.

IT WAS LAST September, however, that Canon Turner's name became known across Canada. When word of his injury reached Ottawa, military officials authorized evacuation by a combined force of army and air force personnel.

Four army paratroopers, one a doctor, jumped to his aid, Oct. 4. At that time no plane could land near the mission 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg. On Nov. 2, however, when ice on the northern lakes thickened sufficiently to serve as air strips, a successful landing was made. The Canon, his wife, two children and an Eskimo ward, together with the paratroopers, boarded the silver-winged aircraft for Winnipeg.

The Canon was rushed to hospital, where his once sturdy 240-pound frame—his weight went down to 160 before his death—fought a stubborn battle for life and a return to the Arctic, his "first love and where I have spent the best years of my life."

Trucker Hurt

Minor injuries were suffered Monday morning by R. W. Hanson, Sylvan Lake, when the truck he was driving was struck by a CNR freight train at a level crossing near Sylvan Lake. The injured man was taken to the Red Deer hospital for treatment.

He referred to the "deeply significant" words of British Foreign Secretary Bevin.

Mr. Bevin had said last week: "If the settlement of the peace is to be blocked, we cannot continue on with chaos. If peace is to be denied, we cannot remain inactive."

THERE WAS AN impression that Russia was aiming at establishment of a German government along Russian lines and that "everything is being done to stir up unrest in western Europe."

"This is part of the policy of Communsm as it is spreading through Europe at this time."

Mr. King dealt in length with his recent trip overseas. The many warm welcomes he received during his tour of northern European countries were "one and all intended as gratitude to Canada for what our country did to help liberate northern Europe in war and for what has been done since to help the recovery."

"That gratitude is primarily due to the many sacrifices made by the members of Canada's armed forces in helping liberate those countries."

OF HIS VISIT to continental Europe, he said France was in a "deplorable" condition which he traced directly to the "Communistic influence" which has been fomenting trouble and undermining the progress and security of the country.

There was nothing of more concern to the people of other countries than the unsettled conditions in France.

Belgium, on the other hand, had considerably much more prosperity and had made a "marvellous" recovery despite some "subversive influences."

Mr. King said that on each of his recent visits to the United Kingdom he had been impressed by the determination of the British people to recover from the effects of the war. But despite the outward appearances of improvement and headway, "the large mass of the people are suffering greatly from privation."

which Canada has been invited to sign.

The chairman of the Senate's foreign relations committee said in his speech that under the treaty all the territory of any American state is in "the area of special protection."

"Some territories of non-treaty states—like Canada and Greenland—are also included in this area where an armed attack would be of intimate and immediate hazard to the Americas."

Yankee Stadium Likely Site

Louis Offers Walcott Title Shot Next June

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Joe Louis said yesterday he is willing to meet Jersey Joe Walcott again in June of next summer just a few hours after the New York Athletic Commission had turned down the Camden battler's arguments for a reversal of last Friday night's verdict.

Louis, making his announcement through Sol Strauss of the 20th Century Sporting Club, suggested that New York's Yankee Stadium would be a logical site and added that the only hitch would be the arranging of "satisfactory terms."

It is believed he referred to terms similar to those of the second Billy Conn fight when Louis drew 40 per cent of the receipts and the Pittsburgh challenger 20 per cent.

AT A MEETING of the State Athletic Commission yesterday, Chairman Eddie Eagan and Commissioner Clilan B. Powell devoted about 12 minutes to hearing the claims of Walcott and his manager, Joe Webster, then issued a statement disclaiming any desire "to interfere with the discretion and judgment of competent officials."

Walcott, who came to New York for the hearing, mumbled "you couldn't print what I think" after hearing the decision and Webster refused to make any statement.

Curling Chief

J. M. Wilson, secretary, announced last night that the Travellers bonspiel will be held Dec. 26, 27, 29 and 30, and a fine list of prizes will be up for competition. The event will be held at the Royal rink.

Slijhuis Olympic Hope

Holland to Present Strong Track Threat

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Holland's brightest hope for an Olympic championship next year is 24-year-old Willie Slijhuis, whom the great distance runner Paavo Nurmi tabbed "my successor."

The flying Finn made the prediction after seeing Slijhuis finish second behind Sydney Wooderson of England in the 5,000-metre race at the European championships of 1946. (One metre equals 1.094 yards.)

IT WAS THE Netherlander's big time debut at the distance and though he was runner-up in 14 minutes 14 seconds he was fresh and fit. Wooderson, 10 years older, was 5.4 seconds faster, but the grind had consumed his energy and convinced him that he must give way to youth. Soon after the venerable Sydney retired.

Slijhuis has a job in an Amsterdam sports shop. There you can find him part of every day behind the counter — still slim, five feet seven inches tall and weighing about 140 pounds.

At Bergen, Norway, Willie won a 3,000-metre race in 8 minutes 8.8 seconds against a strong field of Swedes and Norwegians. A few days later he did 1,500 metres in 3 minutes 50.4 seconds, his best time for that event.

SLIJHUIS turned out another great performance at 3,000 metres in Prague in 1947, covering the distance in 8 minutes 10 seconds to avenge a surprise defeat by the Czech champion, Emil Zatopek, in Holland. But he still has to speed up to threaten Gunder Haegg's world record of 8 minutes 1.2 seconds.

At two miles Willie's best time, a Dutch record, is 9 minutes 2.2 seconds.

Wetaskiwin Plays Camrose Tonight

Camrose Maroons will play Wetaskiwin Canadians in a Northern Alberta Intermediate League game at Wetaskiwin tonight, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Lack of ice facilities, due to mild weather has forced postponement of several scheduled fixtures in the circuit and Maroons and Canadians will be packing up one tonight.

This will be the first clash between Canadians, currently second in the league standing, and Maroons, who looked impressive in both starts here against Mercurys.

Juveniles Start Schedule Dec. 15

The City Juvenile Hockey League, which is made up of four teams—EAC's, Canadians, Maple Leafs and South Side— will lift the lid off the 1947-48 schedule on Monday, Dec. 15, it was announced today by Director Ernie Smalian.

The 36-game schedule, which will wind up Feb. 12, provides for each team to play two fixtures weekly. Starting time for all week day tilts is 8 p.m., while Sunday games will start at 11 a.m.

HOME CLUBS, named last on the schedule, are responsible for the supplying of pucks, goal judges and timekeepers.

Coast To Get Major League Recognition?

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The presence of the Pacific Coast in the major baseball leagues in the near future became a distinct possibility yesterday when it was learned that the National and American Leagues will suggest to the Coast League Thursday to bring in four of its big clubs for the purpose of forming two 10-team major leagues.

A RELIABLE source told The Associated Press that the majors will inform Pacific Coast representatives they are willing to take in the cities of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Hollywood and Oakland provided these clubs can obtain territorial release from the Pacific Coast League.

Under the 10-team set-up the National League probably would expand to include Los Angeles and the American League would expand to include San Francisco and Hollywood.

The major leagues open their annual winter meetings here today and a joint meeting, at which the coast situation will be discussed, is scheduled for Thursday.

Midget Puck Loop Opens on Dec. 16

The City Midget Hockey League's schedule which consists of 54 games, was announced today by Earni Smalian, director of the Edmonton and District Hockey Association. The youngsters will swing into action on Tuesday, Dec. 16, and will continue through until Feb. 13.

The seven clubs entered in the league are: EAC Roamers, home rink 119 street; EAC Rovers, Stadium; Canadians "A", 119 street; Canadians "B", Ritchie; Maple Leafs, 120 avenue; Mapleos, Eastwood; SSAC, 81 avenue.

STARTING TIME for all midget fixtures is 8 p.m. The last named teams in the schedule are the home clubs, and they are to supply goal judges, timekeepers and pucks.

SOLUNAR TABLES by John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's SOLUNAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

No Packed Rinks This Year

Travellers' Bonspiel Set Christmas Week

There won't be any packed rinks when the United Commercial Travellers' Curling Club hold its annual bonspiel at the Royal rink Dec. 26, 27, 29 and 30.

To prevent any skip entering a star-laden rink, it was decided to select the first 32 skips entered and then draw the names of the thirds, seconds and leads from a hat. In this way every rink will have a fair chance of winning.

J. M. WILSON, secretary of the Travellers' Club, announced that there will be a list of fine prizes and arrangements have been made to give the younger players a chance to participate.

The bonspiel will be limited to 32 rinks and those who intend to play are asked to fill out an entry blank and have it in the hands of Bob MacGregor not later than Dec. 17. Entry blanks may be obtained at the information desk at Edmonton Motors.

Postpone Opening Of Ponoka Arena

Official opening of the new Ponoka rink, scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed to January.

Original plans called for the opening on Dec. 3, but unseasonably warm weather interfered with ice-making and Dec. 10 was then decided upon. A breakdown in the pumping system yesterday forced still further postponement.

Water used for ice-making at Ponoka is secured from the Battle River, several hundred feet distant from the arena. Flooding operations will resume as soon as repairs are effected and it is just possible one or more league games will be played before the formal opening.

Lethbridge Leafs Playing Flyers

Lethbridge Maple Leafs will be making their second appearance in Edmonton this season when they play Flyers at the arena tonight.

So far Leafs and Flyers have clashed on four occasions and the home club has emerged on the long end of the score each time. Flyers won here 5-3 on Oct. 16 and since have dropped three in a row to Dave (Sweeney) Schriner's squad at Lethbridge.

COACH FRANK CURRIE expects to ice the same club as used against Saskatoon Quakers last Friday, Freddy Smitten still being on the casualty list. Starting time is 8:30 as usual.

Boucher Sold On Idea Of Masks For Goalies

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Perish the thought, but . . . some day soon a hockey dressing room may resemble a beauty parlor for women.

There won't be any mud packs or gadgets for putting a cute curl in the hair. Instead, if Manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers has the right idea, face masks ultimately will be standard equipment for goaltenders.

Always a man for innovations, Boucher says face guards seem a "sane solution" for the facial and head injuries that so often smite the men who guard the cords.

THE SUBJECT came up when it was learned that Claude (Chuck) Rayner, regular Ranger goalie who suffered a compound fracture of the cheek-bone in mid-November, is wearing a plexiglas device in practice to protect the injury.

The custom-built guard covers the face with a 3-16th-inch thickness of material used in the nose of airplanes. It has a slender slit opening, through which the goalie breathes. When rubbed with a preparation, the device does not "fog" from cold.

A LEATHER band across the forehead keeps the mask from getting too close to the face and there is a chin piece, as on a football helmet, to keep it steady.

A puck travels 86 miles an hour when properly propelled, Boucher said, and can cause more damage to a profile than a baseball. So why not face masks?

Cheering Calgarians Give Quakers "Lift"

But Stampeders Register 10-5 League Victory

CALGARY, Dec. 9. —(CP)—Calgary Stampeders, playing through a game that was dull for the most part except for a section of the third period when the crowd of 5,000 started cheering wildly for Saskatoon Quakers in a successful bid to wake the visitors up, strengthened their position at the top of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League with a 10-5 decision against the luckless cellar-dwellers last night.

There was little excitement in the contest until midway through the third session when Quakers slapped in three goals in a minute and 21 seconds and added another later while Stamps fought to nulify the points.

BUNNY DAME sparked his club's attack with three goals and one assist. Bob Brownridge, rounding into form after a slow start early in the season, scored twice and assisted on two others, while Doug French, back in the Stampeder lineup for the first time in many games, counted two and helped out on one. Hunter, Culley and Devicq scored the others, Dunc Grant making three assists to boost his personal point total.

Reg Bentley, Clouston, Rempel, Johnson and Richardson counted for Saskatoon, Clouston and Rempel scoring 16 seconds apart in the brisk Quaker uprising midway through the period.

BENTLEY started the scoring for the visitors on a nice solo rush after Craig gave him the puck near the Quaker blueline, but Dame wiped out the point by picking up a loose puck after McAuley had blocked a shot from Doug French. After Hunter finished off a three-way passing display and Culley went the length of the ice alone to score, it looked as though Stamps stopped trying to play and Quakers couldn't.

BROWNRIDGE scored as the third period opened, French added another seven minutes later, and then Quakers woke up.

Dertell came far out to block three straight shots before Clouston finally swept the puck into the net from the left side. Rempel went straight in from the face-off for another and a minute later Johnson finished the splurge.

Dame got one of the goals back three minutes later when he finished off a rush by Ken Stewart. Richardson banged back a rebound from the backboards after Montgomery had missed the Calgary net, and Dame wound up the eight-goal period by tipping a double relay in from the side.

Saskatoon — McAuley; Craig, Dutchak; Snider; Johnson, Rempel. Subs: Fenn, Clouston, O'Hara, Jenkins, Bentley, Shabaga, Richardson, Montgomery.

Calgary—Dertell; Stewart, Kummerfield; Hunter; Brownridge, Grant. Subs: McDonald, Devicq, Culley, Cairns, French, Dame, Emery, Wilder.

Officials — Referee, Vic Lindquist, Winnipeg. Linesmen, Joe McGoldrick, Johnny Souter, Calgary.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1—Saskatoon, Bentley (Craig), 6:04; 2 — Calgary, Dame (French), 9:07; 3 — Calgary, Hunter (Brownridge, Grant), 14:00; 4—Calgary, Culley, 15:48. Penalties—none.

Wins Divided Vote

Rocky's Ring Future Almost Hits Canvas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Rocky Graziano won a narrow squeak, split decision yesterday in a poll of state boxing commissioners who were asked whether the world's middleweight champion should be allowed to fight again.

THE NATIONAL BOXING ASSOCIATION said the results show that 40 per cent are for Graziano, while 33.8 per cent are against him. The rest either didn't vote or said they hadn't made up their minds.

Graziano—whose life outside the ring has been even more turbulent than it has inside it—was barred from boxing in Illinois after the state boxing commission there said it had discovered that Graziano was dishonorably discharged from the army.

THE RESULT OF THE POLL, NBA president Abe J. Greene said, doesn't mean the NBA will take any action. For the association has no authority to force any state to use—or not use—Graziano on its fight cards.

He said he thought that the opinions of state commissioners, and of fight fans, would help each state commission make a ruling should Graziano decide he wants to fight there.

McDonald Increases Lead to Six Points

Byron "Butch" McDonald, smooth-passing Calgary Stampeder centre, picked up a brace of goals and six assists in his last three outings to remain solidly atop the Western Canada Hockey League's point-sniping parade with 38 points.

Calgary's Don Culley netted four goals during the week and has dethroned Ab McDougall of Regina as the top goal-getter in the league. Culley also holds down second spot with 32 points, made up of 21 markers and 11 assists.

MOREY RIMSTAD still continues to pace the Edmonton Flyers with 27 points, good for a fifth place tie with Snider of Saskatoon and Fisher of Regina.

Johnny Black, shifty winger of the Flyers, took a sizable jump up the ladder by helping in four scoring plays against Saskatoon last Friday. He is now riding in 13th position with nine goals and 12 assists.

1948 Canadian Open Goes to Vancouver

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—(CP)—The 1948 Canadian open golf championship will be held Sept. 22-25 at the Shaughnessy Heights golf course in Vancouver, George W. Lang, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, announced yesterday.

Mr. Lang also disclosed that the Canadian open, won this year by South Africa's Bobby Locke over the Toronto Scarboro course, has been placed on the official tournament schedule of the Professional Golfers' Association of the United States.

The Canadian tourney will be preceded by a PGA tournament at Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 16-19 and will be followed by another PGA competition at Seattle Sept. 30-Oct. 3. Another PGA affair is scheduled for Portland, Ore., Sept. 9-12.

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec 9.—(AP)—His ninth one-putt green for a birdie three on the 19th gave 29-year-old Dave Douglas of Willmington, Del., a one-stroke victory over Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Cal., in a playoff for the third annual Orlando open golf title yesterday. Herman Keiser of Akron, O., took third place.

Douglas, Demaret and Keiser finished the 72-hole event over the 6,454-yard Dubsdread Country Club course Sunday tied with 274s.

Both carded par 71s for the regulation 18 holes.

Close Point Race In American Loop

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Ed Prokop, Cliff Simpson, Ray Laplante and Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds continue to dominate the American Hockey League's individual scoring parade, statistics released last night show.

Prokop has garnered 41 points, three more than runner-up Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis Capitals. Laplante, Prokop's linemate, trails Simpson by one point and in turn, leads Liscombe by two.

PROKOP also tops the circuit in goal-getting with 22 and Laplante in assists with 26.

Pittsburgh's Baz Bastien enjoys a comfortable margin for goal-tending honors with a 2.38 average. Phil Samis is the most penalized player in the circuit with 58 minutes.

Recognize Walcott As World Champ

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—N. K. Perlow, managing editor of the Police Gazette, said Monday a $2,500 silver and jewel-studded belt would be given Jersey Joe Walcott as "world heavyweight boxing champion" within 10 days.

WALCOTT was defeated by Joe Louis, holder of the title since 1937, in Madison Square Garden Friday night although referee Ruby Goldstein and many boxing writers scored the Camden, N.J., challenger as the winner. The two judges voted for Louis.

The belt will be a duplicate of the ones given John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jess Willard.

Learn $800,000 Lesson

Stars Lead Mexican "Angels" Into "Red"

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Mexican baseball angels have paid out $800,000 in two years to learn that a roster of expensive imported stars does not make the game.

This is the hard-cash reason for the cactus circuit's decision to return to the less spectacular — and more profitable — days of 1940 when clubs depended on native talent, with only a scattering of Cubans, United States minor leaguers and Negroes in the batting order.

THOUGH NEITHER the Mexican League nor its clubs publish financial statements, underground reports from the six teams in the 1947 season add up to a 1,500,000-peso, ($300,000) loss.

This was shared among five teams, with only one, the champion Monterrey nine, breaking even.

The figure is an improvement over an estimated 2,500,000-peso $500,000) red ink entry for the previous season when the eight-team circuit, bossed by the millionaire importer and sportsman, Jorge Pasquel, raided United States major league preserves for names like Max Lanier, Mickey Owen, Lou Klein, Fred Martin, Harry Feldman, Danny Gardella and Ace Adams.

THE EXPENSIVE 1948 season forced two teams out of the league, and the 1947 about-face in policy shows that the clubs can't keep up the financial pace.

A commissioner will boss the circuit next season as in 1940. Each club is limited to 20 players and a 50,000-peso ($10,000) maximum monthly payroll. Only eight may be foreigners.

Estimates put the Pasquels' Vera Cruz and Mexico City Reds well into the red this season, each dropping 300,000 pesos ($60,000). Both teams use the capital's Parque Delta as their home field, and both were reported ahead 100,000 pesos ($20,000) at the end of the first seven weeks' take from enthusiastic Mexico City fans.

Sports commentators blame the reverse in the local gate on post-war inflation and an economic depression which began to be felt along about mid-season.

Advance Ski Team Sails for Games

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A ski team made up of 30 men and women performers, along with managers and coaches, embarked late yesterday on the steamship America as the advance guard of the United States team which will compete in the Olympic Winter Games at St. Moritz, Switzerland, Jan. 30 to Feb. 8.

Durocher Writing History of "Bums"

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Leo Durocher, reinstated Brooklyn manager, has signed a contract to write a history of the Dodgers, to be titled "Dem Bums" and published next spring, a publishing company (Ziff-Davis) announced Monday.

Durocher signed the deal last month and as yet has not asked for editorial assistance with the book.

Hat Tigers Carry Sons to Overtime

MEDICINE HAT, Dec. 9.—(CP)—For the first time in this season's Southern Alberta Junior Hockey League, the loop-leading Lethbridge Native Sons were forced into overtime here last night before pulling out with a 6-4 victory over Medicine Hat Tigers.

Forced to fight from behind most of the distance—an unusual situation for Sons—the Lethbridge sextet conceded the first goal in overtime before finally running in three against the tiring Tigers who were served brilliantly in the nets by goalie Fred Ives.

Port Arthur Club Pastes Canucks

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Moose Jaw Canucks were pasted 10-2 last night by Port Arthur Bruins in an exhibition junior hockey game played before 2,000 fans, Canucks fading completely after setting a hard early pace. The teams play again Wednesday.

Behind 4-0 at the end of the first frame, Russ Wylie scored for Canucks in the second frame against two markers for Port Arthur. Jim Bedard got the second counter for the visitors while Bruins added four more.

Baseball Deal

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Washington Senators sent second baseman Gerry Priddy to St. Louis Browns yesterday in a straight cash transaction involving a reported $25,000. Leafs' Syl Apps Well In Front

MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Syl Apps, veteran Toronto centreman, had only managed to garner one point in the Leafs' last five games prior to Saturday, but he went on a spree against Chicago to collect five points and regain the top spot among National Hockey League scorers.

Smooth-working Syl now has 13 goals and 13 assists, and holds a five-point margin over Maurice Richard of Montreal and Detroit's Jimmy McFadden who both went pointless over the week-end.

BUDDY O'CONNOR of New York was a big gainer with two goals and two assists to move into a fifth place tie with Elmer Lach of Canadiens. Each has 19 points, one less than Ted Lindsay of Detroit.

The leaders:

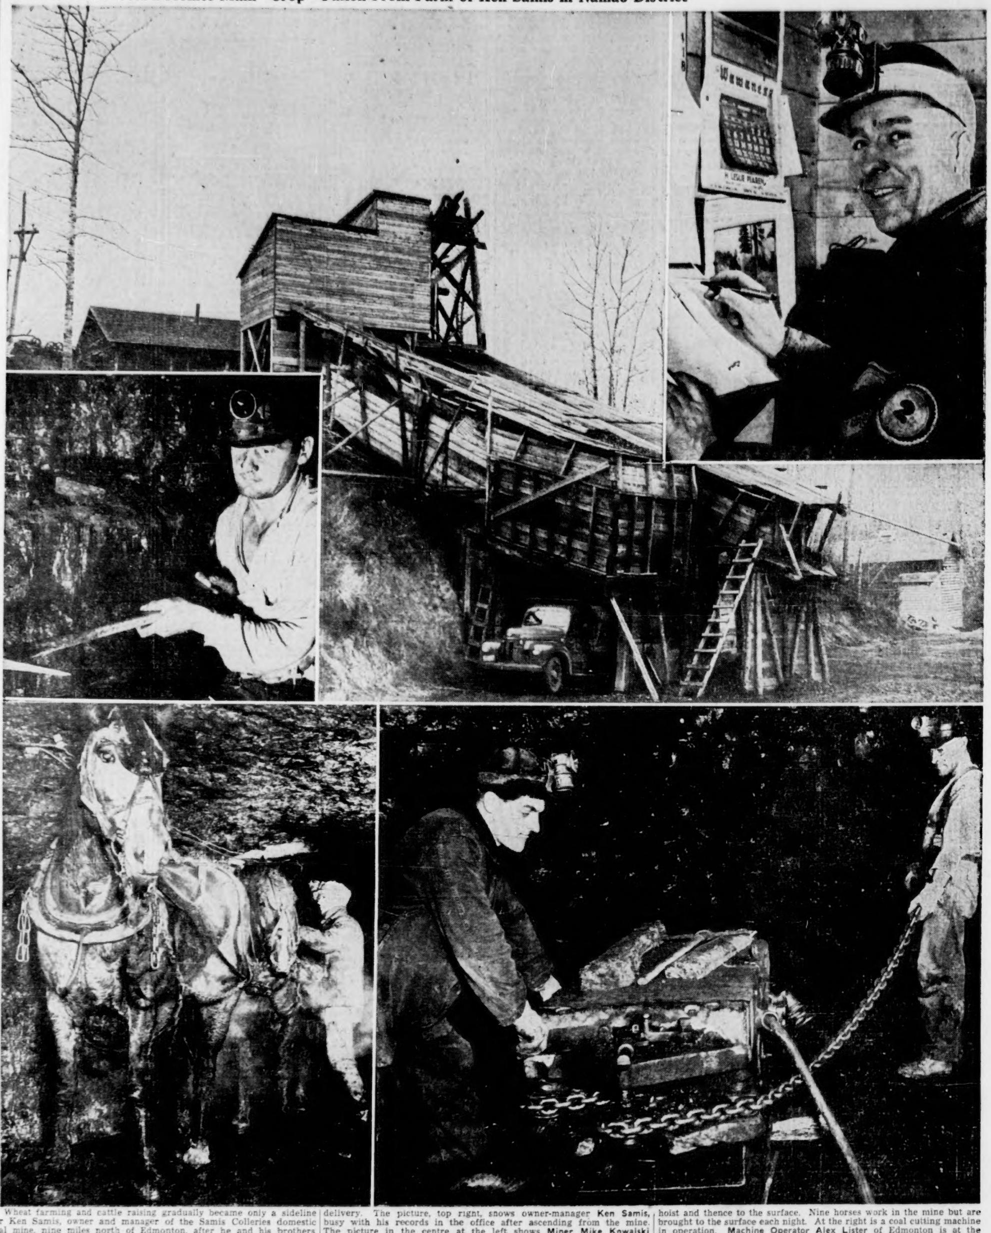
Good Domestic Coal Becomes Main "Crop" Taken From Farm of Ken Samis in Namao District



Wheat farming and cattle raising gradually became only a sideline for Ken Samis, owner and manager of the Samis Colleries domestic coal mine, nine miles north of Edmonton, after he and his brothers started digging in their back yard and unearthed an eight-foot seam. Ken and his brother Earl, decided to try mining on their farm near Edmonton 18 years ago. Now Ken is taking out 18,000 tons of coal each year from his mine. Various phases of activity above and under the ground are shown in the above layout. The main picture, centre top, shows the mine tipple with a truck being loaded with coal for city delivery. The picture, top right, snows owner-manager Ken Samis, busy with his records in the office after ascending from the mine. The picture in the centre at the left shows Miner Mike Kowalski swinging his pick on a newly-dynamited section of coal far underground. Mike farms in the summer in the Namao district and has been working in mines on and off since he was 16 years old. The scene at the bottom on the left shows Driver Percy Stubbs of Namao adjusting the harness of Sandy, member of the mine horse team of Ginger and Sandy, prior to taking out a string of loaded mine cars to the cable winch hoist and thence to the surface. Nine horses work in the mine but are brought to the surface each night. At the right is a coal cutting machine in operation. Machine Operator Alex Lister of Edmonton is at the left with Mike Holmes of Bon Accord, machine helper, holding the chain, at the right. After the electrically powered machine has taken a deep cut at the base of the mine room, dynamite will blast a mass of coal loose from the wall. The Samis mine keeps 23 miners employed throughout the winter.

Brothers Developed Black Harvest

Namao "Farm" Produces Coal At Rate of 200 Tons Daily

By Jack DeLong

One summer day about 18 years ago, two young farmers strolled into a coulee that cut through the family farm close to Namao nine miles north of Edmonton. Their eyes came to rest for a moment on dull black "rocks" on the bank. The young men investigated more closely. They decided they had discovered a coal outcropping.

THAT WAS in 1929.

Since that time the farm has produced 324,000 tons of domestic coal, from a rich eight-foot seam of semi-bituminous grade. It probably is one of the deepest "plowings" in agricultural history and one of considerable profit too because no frost, no drought nor hail can rob the "farmer" of the fruits of his labor. It is estimated this same seam will continue to produce good coal at the same rate for another 20 years.

Top production is at the rate of about 200 tons a day. Depth of mining is approximately 80 feet.

The two farmers, the brothers Ken and Earl Samis, were the lads who made the discovery of a coal outcropping nearly 20 years ago and who later made coal their most profitable "crop."

Today the mine, known as the Samis Colleries, is operated by Ken Samis, well known to Edmonton sports fans as a smart catcher with the New Edmonton Hotel Eskimos in the Alberta Senior Baseball League last season.

SAMIS NOW employs 23 miners and operates the mine on pretty close to year round basis. The farmer-owner is proud of the mine, as it is rated one of the dryest, cleanest and most gas free in all of northern Alberta.

"No one has been killed or even seriously hurt in our mine since the day it opened," Ken observed recently.

Brought up for a career of farming, Ken Samis learned his mining the hard, practical way. When he and Brother Earl decided to try their hands at mining right on the old family homestead, they first engaged the services of a qualified pit boss.

Ken and three brothers went right to work, sinking the shaft, building a tipple, cutting and putting in mine props and the hundred and one other jobs in connection with opening up a coal mine. Later the brothers went down into the mine with picks and shovels and learned at first hand what a back-breaking job digging coal really is. Two of the brothers still work in the mine and Ken himself is down below nearly every day, despite his position as owner-manager.

FOR SEVERAL years the mine scarcely paid its way. There was a lot of money spent and coal prices and orders didn't kick back sufficient to the operators. Then came the great depression. But the Samis brothers clung on, certain they would some day have a payoff.

About six years ago the brothers dissolved their partnership, Earl entering business in Edmonton, while Ken remained as sole owner and manager.

Business improved in recent years and the mine is now operating at a profit. It's been a long hard pull but it was worth the struggle in Ken's opinion.

As was to be expected farming operations on the surface slackened off in direct ratio to increasing activity below ground. One reason is that caving working rooms has caused considerable subsidence in spots. But there's still a sizable wheat field above the mine.

Being a comparatively small operation as coal mines go, the Samis mine is not extensively mechanized. There are modern coal cutting machines and electric power for lighting and hoisting purposes.

NINE HORSES work below ground, pulling the loaded mine cars to the shaft head where an electric winch completes the haul to the tipple where the coal is screened and graded.

The horses work only an eight-hour day, five-day week, the same as the miners, although they have probably never heard of John L. Lewis. Contrary to popular belief, horses do not go blind from working underground. The Samis horses are brought to the surface each evening and stabled above ground. They become almost human in their intelligence after working down the mine a few years.

There are one and one half miles of trackage in the Samis mine. There are two main entries or tunnels with new and abandoned working rooms branching off in many directions. There must be two main entries or tunnels in every mine, for purposes of ventilation and safety. Regulations call for two avenues of escape.

"The trick in operating a coal mine," says Ken, "is to get as much of the coal out as you can without causing premature cave-ins."

ONLY YEARS of experience bring the most efficient operation. Entries and working rooms cannot be made too wide or down may come the roof. At the same time no mine operator likes to leave good coal underground. So everything requires careful watching. A certain amount of coal therefore is taken as the miner works in toward the end of the seam and still more as he works back out, allowing the roof to cave in behind him.

Machines make a big cut near the floor of a room and then dynamite or black powder is fired to break the coal. Then it is shovelled into mine cars and pulled away. One team can handle nine loaded cars, about 10 tons.

Although the Samis mine is very dry, spring thaws occasionally cause troule. A few years ago Ken found eight feet of water in his mine one morning. It was several days before the workings were pumped dry.

ELMER FAWCETT, a wary veteran of 30 years in the mining business, is pit boss at Samis Colleries.

The real veteran at the Samis mines, however, is Alex Milones, who has been swinging a pick for 45 of his 65 years. He started working in coal mines when he was a mere stripling in Pennsylvania.

Bill Rockwell, of Cardiff, thought he'd like to try mining after serving in Western Europe with the Sixth Canadian Armored Regiment. He thinks it's a swell life. Several other young veterans also work in the Samis mine.

Ken thinks there is another seam of good coal below the one being worked and may test the structures for this at an early date.

Later he plans to purchase more likely mining properties and expand his operations.

The Samis Colleries is one of four good mines in the immediate vicinity of the village of Namao. There is the Starkey mine, just a few hundred yards distant; the Edmonton Colleries and the Boomerang mine.

Trapper Dies

Neil Armstrong, 59-year-old trapper of the Hargwin district, near Edson, was found dead on his trap line Saturday, according to RCMP. According to the report, the man left on horseback to cover his lines a week ago Friday. When he did not return for a week a search party was organized. Cause of death was a heart attack.

Hold One-Day Meet

Automobile Dealers Study Tax Situation

Approximately 100 members of the Northern Alberta Automobile Association attended a one-day convention held in the Macdonald hotel Monday, at which the position of the automotive industry, following recent dollar-saving regulations, was discussed.

MORLEY G. MERNER, Wetaskiwin, president of the association, presided.

Harry I. Wilson, Calgary, president of the Canadian Federation of Auto Dealer Associations and Howard B. Moore, Toronto, managing director of the federation, were the main speakers. The Northern Alberta association is affiliated with the Dominion federation.

Other speakers were Mr. Merner and Frank Wolfe, Edmonton, a director of the Canadian federation.

Policies for the future in the light of the recent ban on U.S. manufactured autos and promised quota system, along with the new excise taxes imposed on all automobiles, formed the main topic for discussion.

Despite the drastic nature of the new government regulations, the officials expressed optimisim over the future of the industry.

The dealers are now urging the federal government to speed up announcement of quotas for American-made cars so that Canadian dealers will have their position clarified without undue delay.

The convention concluded with a reception and banquet in the main dining room, attended by the visiting members and special guests.

Mayor Harry Ainlay and Chief Const. Reginald Jennings were among the special guests.

Paul Gallico Says:

Chicago.—Comparisons between the two giant metropolises, New York and Chicago, are usually invidious, and by their invidiousness, whatever that means, tend to stir inhabitants of both cities to wrath. However, a little stirring is said to be good for the circulation, and so how's about it?

New York is supposed to be the centre of sophistication when it comes to tying on the feed bag, but the very last word in joints devoted to dishing out vittles a la the Quest-ce-que-c'est on toast, is not located in dear old Gotham, but right in the middle of this fabulous settlement on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Has Atmosphere

For atmosphere, luxury of appointments, comfort, service, variety of menu, quality of grub and pure, unadulterated swank, the Pump Room of this town's Hotel Ambassador, is equal to anything New York can offer, and far ahead of most of Gothams high-priced joints. Chicagoans can' dine in a room modelled after the famous casino in Victorian Bath in England, their groceries are rushed to them by servitors clad in black satin knee-breeches and crimson Tally-ho jackets, their coffee delivered by a Senegambian accoutred in blue satin with a feather head-dress a yard high, and their wine by an agile little fellow dressed like high man in the pyramid family of Italian tumblers.

Many of the dishes served are sent rushing through the glittering, dimly-lighted salle, impaled on the end of an epee or duelling sword, and burning fiercely, which of course always makes me think of the classic remark made by my colleague, the late Jack Miley, who ordered a portion of scrambled eggs in the famous eatery and added, "And let's see you bring them in on one of those blinkblanked swords."

Evade Irritation

The management is careful not to irritate its midwestern clients by the use of Frenchified terms on the program of groceries, but achieves atmosphere instead by printing the menu in old-fashioned English script in which the letter "S" comes up looking exactly like an "F."

This leads to some charming but only temporary bewilderments as when you find you are being urged to partake of Mufhoom foup, or some Firloin fteak on a fizzling platter or a curry of fhrimpf, fifh or lobfter. But once you get onto the trick of decoding these, or ftick to chicken or pork or difhes not emberaffed by esses, you get along fine and the boyf will ruffle you up a fupper unmatched with the poffible exception of Antoine's in New Orleans.

So your skimmer goes off to Chicago for supporting an eatery of super-refinement, good taste and delicacy, but you can clap it right back again onto your noggin when you see that the natives on a Saturday night (and every other night) pack the room to the rafters, wearing their street clothes and looking as though they had slept in them.

He Salutes 'em

For all I know, this may even be a super-snobbism to which maybe I ought to hoist the kelly again, namely, to maintain an exclusive class joint, complete with dim lights, sparkling napery, fancy feed, soft music, portrait of the Marquis of Bath on the wall, and uniformed flunkies. A superb blending of swank and luxury, and then come in an old brown suit! This may be Chicago's own way of giving the horse laugh to all gewgaws, foofaraw and foreign hanky-panky, a relic of that brawny Americanism that saw the miners invade the glittering dining room of the Palace Hotel in San Francisco in their hobnailed boots in the old days.

If fo, I falute them.

Danish Orphan Flies From East

A war orphan from faroff Copenhagen, 10-year-old Olle Madsen, has arrived in Edmonton to begin a new life after a long sea-air trip from Europe.

Little Olle, who can as yet speak no English, was a passenger aboard a TCA aircraft that arrived here from the east Tuesday morning.

The lad was met at the airport by his uncle and aunt, Jens Christoffersen of Ryley and Mrs. Christoffersen, with whom he will make his home. The Christoffersens are farmers.

Olle crossed the Atlantic to New York in a liner and made the balance of his journey to Edmonton by TCA.

Order Five Buses For City Service

An order has been placed with the Canada Car and Foundry Co., Fort William, for five gasoline passenger buses for the Edmonton Transit System, it was announced Tuesday by City Commissioner D. B. Menzies. The cost of the five vehicles is approximately $75,000.

Under the terms of the order two of the buses will be delivered early in 1948, and the other three about mid-summer.

Mr. Menzies also stated that 15 new trolley buses would be needed by the system next year in connection with the conversion program from trolley to street car operation.

He said that enquiries were being made from trolley bus manufacturers concerning prevailing prices and anticipated the order for the 15 buses would be placed in the near future. The total cost of these buses is placed at approximately $287,250.

In Manslaughter Case

Low Speed Claimed By Charged Driver

James Robert Heydenreich, Edmonton, on trial on two manslaughter charges arising out of a street accident on Aug. 24 last at the intersection of 106 avenue and 97 street, testified Tuesday that his speed at the time of the accident was between 25 and 30 miles an hour, and that he was keeping a proper look-out.

HE DENIED that just before the accident he was zig-zagging his automobile. Evidence of this zigzagging was given earlier in the trial by a woman witness. The tire marks found on the street by investigating police officers showed no signs of such driving.

The witness said he did not see the woman victim of the accident enter the intersection. His first sight of her was when he had entered the intersection and saw her about eight feet ahead of him. He started to swerve his car to avoid her, and immediately saw a man a few feet away from the woman and nearly in front of his car.

He was of the opinion the man and woman entered the intersection hurriedly.

The accused told the court he was travelling north, straddling the most easterly rail of the street car tracks as he entered the intersection. After swerving to avoid striking the woman, his car struck a parked vehicle and came to a stop in front of a store on the west side of the street.

As a result of the accident Paul Kowalski was killed instantly, and Mrs. Bedniuk died later from injuries received.

School Official To Leave Service

Superintendent of the school division at Edson, C. Ross Ford will be leaving the government service early in the new year or as soon as a successor can be found for him, according to an announcement Wednesday by Dr. W. H. Swift, deputy minister of education.

Mr. Ford has accepted an appointment with the federal department of labor. He has been with the department of education here for four years.

Wreck Aftermath In Civil Suits

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A damage suit for $100,000 was filed against the United States government yesterday as a result of the breakup on Nov. 24 of the army transport Clarksdale Victory on storm-battered Hippa island off the Alaskan coast. Forty-nine men lost their lives. Four seamen were saved.

Yesterday's suit was brought by Mrs. Lorraine Ruth Dehne whose husband Eugene Dehne, 21-year-old seaman, was among the missing. She charged negligence in operation of the ship.

Lawyer Melvin Belli said 10 similar suits would be filed later this week.

Communists On Down Grade Says Visitor

The Communists are on the downward grade and the progress of France is being held back by internal strife. These were two opinions expressed by Martial Housez, Paris, in an interview in Edmonton Monday.

ACCORDING TO Mr. Housez the political, economical and social condition of France is in a terrible state. The French visitor to Edmonton stated he did not take an active part in politics but definitely believes the Communists are losing much ground.

The former French real estate dealer said France's policy is to export the very maximum. This years crop of grapes is the best in 50 years, a bumper crop. Mr. Housez emphasised that this was the opinion of the experts and not merely his own opinion. The great crop of grapes will pour millions of much needed dollars into France.

Mr. Housez said that prices had sky-rocketed in France since he arrived in Canada about a month ago. He mentioned that butter was selling at $6.50 per pound when he left France. When queried about the French food situation Mr. Housez said, "It is very bad. However you can get almost anything through the black market."

When asked to compare a menu of a Canadian restaurant to that of a French restaurant Mr. Housez said:

"The menus contain practically anything you desire, and you can purchase it providing you can afford it." Mr. Housez then stated there are two items money can't buy." They are white bread and milk. The milk is reserved for children and aged people.

ON HIS ARRIVAL in New York the French visitor marvelled at what he termed as mountains of clothing. He was impressed in a similar manner by the supply of clothing in Edmonton. In New York Mr. Housez couldn't resist touching the various cloths and making a comparison to those of his homeland.

Mr. Housez considers Canadians very fortunate. He suggests that those who complain should go to Europe to get a first hand view of conditions there.

Mr. Housez is a captain of the French army. He was interned by the Italians for a three-month period in 1943, being released after the French armistice. Following this he was arrested by the Gestapo, but was liberated soon after his arrest.

In concluding Mr. Housez stated he hoped that Canada and the rest of the Allies are not asleep.

Martial Housez is visiting his brother Jack, who resides at 10024 142nd Street. To stay in Canada for a considerable time, probably indefinitely, is the present wish of the French army captain.

Special Committee Civic Auditorium

A special committee of city council will be appointed to consider plans for the erection of a civic auditorium if a notice of motion given by Alderman A. Bisset, KC, is passed at the next regular meeting of city council.

Alderman Bisset gave notice that he would move at the next regular meeting of council that a special committee be appointed to "consider plans, seating capacity, location, costs and methods of financing a civic auditorium and art centre and all questions related thereto."

His motion calls for the receiving of representations from all interested parties and organizations, and the bringing of a report and recommendation to council.

A resolution was passed Monday night by city council calling on the Dominion minister of justice to introduce in parliament at the first opportunity amendments and additions to the criminal code which would enable police to arrest without warrant all persons known to be sex perverts, or believed to be likely to commit sex crimes against women and children.

The resolution came before council in a communication from the municipal town of New Toronto, where a similar resolution was passed recently. F. R. Longstaff, clerk of the municipality, sent a copy of the resolution to Edmonton for consideration.

The resolution passed by the city council also requested that the criminal code be amended to permit and direct that all persons apprehended be held in custody for full medical and psychiatric study, and possible operation and treatment by competent specialists, and be so held at the pleasure of the Governor-General in Council until they are certified to be of no further danger to the public.

Name Members Of Civic Boards

City Council Monday night received a report from its nominations committee dealing with representatives on the different civic boards, and approved the following appointments:

Special committee re child welfare: Aldermen H. E. Tanner and G. E. Gleave, F. H. Drayton, superintendent of child welfare, ex-officio.

Town Planning Commission: Prof. C. S. Burgess, R. V. Bellamy, and W. T. Aiken, all elected for three years, and A. G. Stewart to the Zoning Appeal Board for five years.

Boxing Commission: Dr. Eardley S. Allin, A. G. Shute, and F. Heller, each to serve two years.

Board of Health: Aldermen C. E. Gariepy, KC, and G. E. Gleave, to serve for one year; J. A. Gallant to represent the Separate School Board and serve one year; Dr. G. H. Brown representing the public school board for one year, and Dr. R. M. Shaw to serve two years.

Library Board: Ald. F. Armour Ford, KC, D. R. Innes and C. E. Lee, all to serve for two years.

Gas Approval Board: Ald. Sidney Bowcott for one year.

The City of Edmonton Archives and Landmarks Committee: Ald. S. Bowcott, A. M. Dechene, Duncan R. Innes, and Mrs. . J. Walker all for two years.

Exhibition Association: Aldermen James H. Ogilvie, Fred J. Mitchell and S. Bowcott; Carl E. Berg, William Muir, and J. H. Wildman each to serve for two years.

Three Aldermen Named at Red Deer

Special to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Dec. 9.—Three vacancies on the Red Deer city council were filled and ratepayers voted overwhelmingly in favor of increasing the boundaries of the Red Deer municipal hospital district at the civic election here on Monday.

Four candidates were in the running for the council and the figures were: Dr. W. B. Parsons, 509. Ald. Paul Crawford, 399; J. V. Bettenson, 377; Ald. L. W. Askin, 308. The first three were elected. Dr. Parsons, who headed the poll was a new canidate in the civic field while J. V. Bettenson is a former alderman. Ald. Crawford and Ald. Askin were seeking re-election.

The hospital by-law vote was 321 in favor and 37 against. The by-law which carried by a heavy majority will allow an increase in the boundaries of the municipal hospital district and the transfer of the assets and liabilities of the existing district to the proposed larger district.

The vote was the heaviest in years in spite of the fact that all other public offices had been filled by acclamation. Good weather and keen interest in the contest for council and in the hospital by-law together with good organization to get out and vote, resulted in an extraordinary turnout at the poll. There was a lineup outside the polling booth in the public library all afternoon. Some citizens had to wait half an hour or more to cast their ballots and in some cases prospective voters could not wait to vote.

Cavendish-Bentinck To be Cashiered

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(Reuters)—A court martial yesterday convicted Pilot Officer William Cavendish-Bentinck, 23-year-old son of the former British ambassador to Poland, of a charge of "behaving in a scandalous manner unbecoming the character of an officer and gentleman." He was sentenced to be cashiered.

Cavendish-Bentinck, godson of Queen Elizabeth, was acquitted on a second charge of conduct to the prejudice of good order and air force discipline.

The findings are subject to confirmation.

Protests Ban On Alterations

Communication from Charles H. Conquest, 10642 104 street, complaining of his experiences with the city architect's office in his efforts to obtain a permit which would permit him to alter the upstairs portion of his house into a self-contained accommodation unit, was dealt with by city council Monday night. The letter was ordered filed.

The request for a permit was declined by the department on the ground that the proposed accommodation did not meet requirements of the city's building code.

Ald. Sidney Bowcott told council he had visited the Conquest home, and, while appreciating the present housing shortage, he could not recommend the permit be granted. He added the request for permission to establish this accommodation suit had been refused by the zoning appeal board.

Mayor Harry Ainlay informed aldermen that he had ordered an inspection of the proposed accommodation, and it resulted in a recommendation that the permit be refused.

Ald. Bowcott concluded the discussion on this question with the remark "this is a complaint against the department for complying with the bylaw."

Imperial No. 20 Starts Production

Number of producing wells in the Leduc sector of the Edmonton oil fields climbed to 24 yesterday afternoon when Imperial Oil No. 20 roared into production with a flush flow of about 90 barrels per hour.

The well, a D3 zone success completed at a depth of 5,295 feet, was placed on production at 1 p.m. and flowed a total of 902 barrels until 7 a.m. today. It produced on open flow for the first nine hours and was then placed on restricted flow. It is Imperial Oil Ltd.'s 18th producer in the Leduc sector.

Other reports on Imperial wells in the Edmonton district are: Muskeg, 7,734 feet; Battle Lake, 7,834 feet; Legal, 6,150 feet; Woodbend, 4,744 feet; Lloydminster, 1,943; Leduc 21, 5,314 feet; Leduc 22, 5,318 feet; Leduc 25, 4,007 feet; Leduc 26, 4,076; Leduc 27, 3,672 feet; Leduc 28, believed spudded in.

Home Oil-Leduc No. 1, bottomed at 5,345 feet, is attempting to regain lost circulation prior to placing the well on production in the lower D3 zone. This well was an assured success in the D2 zone and then went deeper for the D3. When circulation is regained, casing will be run and the well brought into production.

Westlock Petroleums No. 1 near Westlock is slated to resume drilling the middle of this week, following a complete overhaul of the drilling rig. The well is currently standing with seven inch casing set to 3,932 feet at the top of what is believed to be the D3 zone.

Weather Milder On Prairies Today

Weather has moderated considerably in all regions of the prairies today. In Alberta this morning temperatures are mostly in the 10 to 20 degree range and there is a mild chinook in the Lethbridge and Calgary regions. More light snow is expected today north of Red Deer and temperatures in all regions will be higher than yesterday. .

Lowest overnight temperature recorded in the prairie provinces was at Winnipeg where the mercury dropped to 15 below. Saskatchewan temperatures have climbed from between 20 to 30 below yesterday to about zero today in most regions.

High in Edmonton Monday was 17 above while overnight low was 10. Estimated high for today is 17 above.

Marriage Needs Compatibility

Possibly you have to have a talent for marriage. Otherwise you bungle the job and make a failure of it, as you would of being a carpenter if you couldn't hemmer a nail in straight, or of being a grand opera artist if you couldn't carry a tune. Anyway, that is as plausible an explanation as any of why so many marriages that should have been a bit of Heaven on earth are nothing but a preview of purgatory.

If only people who are sadistic by nature and who get a kick out of torturing others got married, we could understand why one marriage out of three ends in the divorce court. Nor is it difficult to comprehend why the woman who thought she was getting Prince Charming for a husband doesn't go around singing roundelays of joy when she discovers that she is tied to a tightwad and a grouch. And even a blind person can see that the man who espouces a nagger always looks like an early Christian martyr.

But it isn't alone the meanies, the tyrants, the viragoes, and the slave-drivers who are responsible for the marriages that are failures. Some of the best men and women in the world are the worst husbands and wives. They have every good quality except the know-how to get along with their mates.

And the pitiful part of this tragedy is that oftener than not the men and women who are wrecking their marriages are perfectly unconscious of the crime they are committing. The hen-pecking wife, who never gives her husband a breath of freedom and who tortures the very life out of him by her bossing, isn't always actuated by malice. She is often prompted by a love that makes feel that she must keep a continual watch upon him lest some accident might befall him, or he might eat something that disagreed with him.

And all of us know husbands who simply adore their wives and who work themselves to death to give them luxuries, yet, who never pay them a compliment, or say a word of affection to them, or give them a kiss that isn't as frigid as if it had been in cold storage ever since their wedding day.

Now the trouble with these misfit husbands and wives is not that they lacked any of the basic virtues of domesticity, but that they just didn't have a talent for marriage. The husband is a good provider, but he feeds his wife on pork chops while her soul starves for white hyacinths. The wife gets corns on her fingers pinching every penny and burns herself to a cinder cooking good meals, but she has gotten so unglamorous her husband calls her mother.

We often wonder why certain married couples of our aquaintance live together in such harmony and peace when they do not seem to us to be especially congenial; while others who we would think are just made for each other are in a perpetual fight. The answer to the conundrum is that one has a talent for marriage that the other lacks. One couple use as much diplomacy in handling each other after marriage as they did in the days of courtship. The other couple believe that marriage gives them the right to say and do things to each other that they wouldn't think of doing or saying to a stranger.

Which is right?

READER SERVICE

The Graceful Dancer Is Always In Demand

"Dance" rhymes with "Romance" and no closer rhyming mates can be found. Many a romance has begun with a cut-in on the dance floor. Many a courtship has flourished on the moon-drenched terrace outside.

So you can see, with the holidays coming up, how the gal with two left feet—the gal who wants to be asked to dance but is terrified at the prospect—has two strikes against her at the start.

All you have to remember is that the rumba has the same pattern as the fox-trot with shorter steps. Dance on the full, flat foot, counting three steps to a measure with a pause after each third step.

Your man wants you to be an all-around girl, one he can be proud of at all times. Basic dance steps are easy to master and once you learn them, you can follow any variation without much trouble.

You will want to learn the latest dance steps or brush up on some of your rusty ones, so see our Reader Service booklet No. 37. Samba, tango, rumba, waltz, fox-trot, lindy-hop.

Send 30c (coin) for "How To Do The Latest Dance Steps" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Reader Service, 60 Front St., W., Toronto. Print name, address with zone, booklet title and No. 37.

Many Acclamations In B.C. Elections

VANCOUVER, Dec. 9.—(CP)—It was nomination day yesterday in British Columbia civic and municipal fields, but for many candidates it amounted to election day as well.

Incomplete returns last night indicated at least 14 mayoralty candidates, 11 reeves and four village commissioners elected by acclamation. For 10 chief magistrates and nine reeves nomination meant re-election.

What's more, in seven B.C. cities and three rural municipalities there will be no further elections this year—the whole slate was returned by acclamation.

Order New Trial

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—Because no negro had set in a jury in Lauderdale County, Miss., for 30 years, the United States supreme court yesterday ordered a new trial for Eddie (Buster) Patton, negro convicted of murdering a white man.

Find Death From Natural Causes

MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Reported at first by provincial police as having been beaten to death by her husband, last Friday, Mrs. Marie Jeanne Parsons May, 65, was found to have died of natural causes at a coroner's inquest.

The verdict resulted in the release of Atkinson May, 57, who was being held as a material witness. Medico-legal experts said that although they found various superficial bruises about the body, the cause of death had been a kidney condition, "probably aggravated by alcohol." She was also frostbitten. Their shack was unheated and some 200 wine bottles were strewn around.

Elections Held Ontario Centres

TORONTO, Dec. 9—(CP)—More than 60 cities, towns, villages and townships in Ontario yesterday elected their councillors, commissioners, reeves and trustees for 1948 and also voted on expenditures by their councils for community go to Palestine with the five-country projects.

Many of the chief magistrates and reeves already had been elected or re-elected by acclamation. Of the bigger cities, Stratford was the only one with a mayorality campaign, E. Henry winning over Wilfred P. Gregory by more than 1,000 votes.

In western Ontario only one money by-law was defeated—at Port Stanley—where voters turned down a sewage project which would have cost the community $256,000. Expenditures totalling nearly $500,000 were approved in other centres.

Coroners Jury Still Probing

TORONTO, Dec. 9. —(CP)— A description of two men who may have been the slayers of George Vigus and Iris Scott was given a coroner's jury yesterday as a Toronto Transportation Commission motorman described two passengers whom he picked up in the west end district near High Park in the early-morning hours of a day in mid-September.

Weedon's testimony climaxed the fourth day of the inquest into the slayings. Earlier a crowded courtroom heard two hours of exhaustive cross-examination of 19-year-old George Vigus, Jr., in which Crown Counsel Henry Bull asked for a detailed account of the events leading up to the discovery of the bodies by young Vigus, his uncle and two friends.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9—(CP)—The Commons voted 139 to 69 yesterday for a motion by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to open debate on the speech from the Throne but left over for later consideration a second motion by Mr. King which would limit the speech-making to one day.

With the division completed, J. A. Dion (L-Lake St. John-Roberval) opened an address moving adoption of the Throne speech.

The recorded vote, first of the new session, was forced by Progressive Conservative members who expressed opposition to Mr. King's plans to have the debate adjourned after a single day until the main session opens in the New Year.

They contended this procedure would prevent them at this time from airing the grievances of the people they represent while Mr. King argued that the emergency legislation for which the House was summoned should be discussed first.

The Throne speech debate gives members almost unlimited latitude in what they may say.

On the motion, the government was supported by the CCF while the Social Credit party voted with the Progressive Conservatives.

HOW CAESAR AND HIS WIFE DRESSED

In yesterday's article, we compared the varied styles of costume [illegible] eras to a great patchwork quilt in which each piece represents a period of history. And we examined one patch—the clothes worn in ancient Greece in the 5th century B.C., in the time of Pericles.

From Pericles of Athens to Julius Caesar of Rome is but a short space on history's patchwork quilt although almost 500 years lie between them. Rules concerning the wearing [illegible] citizens wore a plain white [illegible] toga. Boys under 16 and certain priests and magistrates wore white togas edged with purple. Generals celebrating a triumph and magistrates presiding at games wore a toga of purple beautifully embroidered. This was supposed to symbolize majesty and great [illegible] Caesar's dictatorship in Rome [illegible] wore the purple toga not just for state occasions but every day.

A smaller toga was used for certain ceremonial occasions, trimmed with bands of bright [illegible] Purple was the usual color of the tunica, however. The Roman senator had two broad bands of purple on his tunica, as a mark of his honorable estate.

It is essential that when the child [illegible] that he be thoroughly awakened. Just to bring the child to the toilet supported by the parent [illegible] is exactly the same as wetting the bed. There [illegible] for bedtime controlled behavior.

Mrs. F. M. W. wants to know when [illegible] training for dryness should be started. [illegible] He [illegible] the [illegible]

Your sister should get the boy up and awake at her bedtime, take [illegible] his clothes and diapers. Perhaps if she used a woolen soaker instead of the plastic cover, she would find that he would stay much warmer. Wool is very absorbent, plastic is not, and the water has to go somewhere, usu[illegible] upon the boys shirt or pajamas.

[illegible] Mr. and Mrs. S. W. [illegible]

This is about all there is to training. If the boy is [illegible] in the daytime [illegible] will be assumed at night when he is old enough for it. In the matter of [illegible] development, boys tend to be somewhat slower than girls.

It is well, always, to make the child feel confident that he will soon be able to control himself. The indulgent, the stern and punitive parent fights a losing battle with a child, who is reluctant to dispense with attentions from the parent and be responsible for his own behavior, or because of resentment toward the parent, can continue such bedtime habits long past the time when they should have been forgotten.

If the child [illegible] enough to chew gum [illegible] it would be better not to give it to him.

Holiday Season Festivities Planned for DVA Patients

Ex-service men and women who will be hospitalized through the Christmas season will be well entertained this year. A host of festivities is being planned for them by various city organizations.

Variety concerts with talented Edmonton performers will be presented in each of the three Department of Veterans' Affairs hospitals, as well as plays and special Christmas parties. Cigarettes, home-made cookies and candies and gifts will be distributed.

One outstanding feature of entertainments planned will be the choir concerts to be given by singing groups. Christmas carols will high-light the programs.

Brightly decorated trees will be placed in all the wards and plenty of holly and Christmas decorations will transform even a hospital room into a St. Nick's palace. Several women's organizations have assumed responsibility for decorating the hospitals.

On Christmas Day all veteran patients will be visited by J. W Proctor, district administrator; Dr. F. G. Ramsay, medical adviser, and W. Cromb, superintendent of rehabilitation, all of the DVA.

Markle-Wilson Vows Pledged

Bronze and white chrysanthemums decorated Metropolitan United Church for the candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Germaine Katherine Wilson and William Harold Markle, which took place recently. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson of Vimy and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Markle of Edmonton. The Rev. R. McElroy Thompson performed the ceremony. Alex Markle, brother of the bridegroom sang "Because," during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with a yoke of nylon net, long tapered sleeves and a full skirt terminating in a train. Her full-length veil of embroidered silk net fell softly from a Mary Queen of Scots headdress and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The Misses Marguerite Wilson and Shirley Miller were bridesmaids and wore similarly styled gowns of mauve and peach taffeta, with headdresses of pearl-trimmed silk net. They carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations. Miss Katherine Whitla was flower girl and wore a full-length gown of yellow taffeta with a wreath of flowers in her hair. She carried a colonial nosegay of Sweetheart rosebuds.

Herbert Sisson was best man Rodney Knaut and Jack Pierce were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception for 60 guests was held at the Corona hotel when the mothers of the bride and bridegroom assisted the bridal couple in receiving. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wilson wore an afternoon dress of burgandy crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Markle was frocked in an afternoon dress of blue crepe with a hat of blue feathers, black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. A. Gilmore grandmother of the bridegroom who also assisted in receiving, wore a black ensemble with a corsage of red roses.

A three-tier wedding cake flanked by bowls of pastel chrysanthemums and tall cream tapers centred the bride's table. Mr. Thompson proposed the toast to the bride.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Markle left on a honeymoon trip to Calgary, the bride travelling in a rose crepe dress, black accessories, a green topcoat with Persian lamb trimming and a corsage of pink roses. From Calgary they will go to Medicine Hat where they will take up residence.

Note of Glamor Marks Opening

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—(CP)—The fashion note was glamor without glitter at the opening of Parliament Friday. Only an occasional bustle and hobble-skirt, hinted that the wives of members and diplomats are taking any interest in the "new look."

The number of mink stoles and neckpieces of other furs betrayed the fact that this was a winter and it was snowing outside. But in a white woolen suit—complete with bustle—and matching hat, one visitor struck the optimistic hope that spring really isn't far around the corner.

The brilliant red and gold sarape worn by Madame Singh Malik wife of the new Indian high commissioner, cut a vivid slash of color among the soberly-dressed diplomatic ranks.

A grey-green crepe, floor length and trimmed with silver sequins was the gown Viscountess Alexander chose for the opening of the fourth session of the 20th Parliament. Her matching hat, off-the-face, was covered with a veil of smokey grey. A heavy diamond necklace was her chief piece of jewelry.

Mrs. Ian Mackenzie wife of the veterans affairs minister wore black crepe trimmed with silver sequins. Mrs. Paul Martin, wife of Health Minister Martin, chose a grey suit and black felt hat.

Theological College Memorial to Temple

HAWARDEN, Cheshire, Eng. (CP)—An appeal for $100,000 to be devoted to a Women's Theological College, which has been opened as a memorial to the late Dr. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury from 1942-44, has been launched by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York.

All men and women who remember him as "one of the outstanding figures in the Christian world" have been asked to contribute. The fund will provide bursaries and books for the college, which will bear Dr. Temple's name.

Film Inspired Bouquet Fad

LONDON.—(CP)—Small Victoria "bouquets" frilled in lace have become popular with teen age girls, who carry them to dances in emulation of 18-year-old screen actress Jean Simmons in one of her recent pictures, "Uncle Silas."

They are also copying her hat style in the picture—hair swept into ringlets with a tiny replica of her bouquet worn at each temple.

M. Filipchuk Takes Bride

GLENDON, Dec. 9.—The rectory of the Greek Catholic Church here was the scene of the recent wedding of Miss Mary Ozemblowski, of Vancouver, daughter of Mrs. A. Ozemblowski, and Michael Filipchuk, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Filipchuk of Glendon. The Rev. Mr. Paschiak officiated.

The bride chose for her wedding a pin stripe gray dressmaker suit the jacket styled with a fish tail back. Her accessories were gray and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

The Misses Lucille Podall and Marjorie Eliuk were bridesmaids. Miss Podall wore a gray dressmaker suit with black accessories and Miss Eliuk wore a black suit with black accessories. Both had corsages of daffodils.

Best men were Cornel Filipchuk, brother of the bridegroom, and George Krzyzanowski.

A dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, followed by a wedding dance. The couple will reside near Glendon.

High School Miss Is Airplane Pilot

VICTORIA.—(CP)—Miss Phyllis Drysdale, 18-year-old high school girl, is one of Canada's youngest licensed women airplane pilots.

She began learning to fly with the Victoria Flying Club last year and won her pilot's licence a few months ago. She now has 50 hours solo flying to her credit and aims to get an instructor's licence.

"I am qualified now but you have to be at least 19 and that's such a long way off," she said.

Acrimonious Debate

Commons Procedure Precipitates Wrangle

By George Kitchen

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. —(CP)— The Commons yesterday stepped into a bitter wrangle on procedure in this first full day of the pre-Christmas session and heard Progressive Conservative members charge that the government was seeking to make parliament a "puppet" and bring members to the status of "rubber-stamps."

PRESAGING a rocky two weeks of debate before the Christmas adjournment, the discussion developed on a motion by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, later adopted by formal vote, for the opening yesterday afternoon of debate on the speech from the throne.

Mr. Rowe spearheaded the Progressive Conservative attack on the government's legislative program and urged that the house take steps to preserve its privileges against governmental interferance.

Mr. King's proposals were nothing more than a plan by which the executive and by that he meant the cabinet, would become "all-powerful." The duty of parliament was to set the people of the nation "free."

Mr. Diefenbaker urged that Mr. King uphold the "great principles of democracy" which had guided him until 1940, when parliament became a "puppet of the executive."

If the opposition consented to the motion, there would be no opportunity to bring before the house the plight of Canada's veterans and their need for larger allowances and pensions.

Speaker Gaspard Fauteux stepped into the discussion and suggested Mr. Diefenbaker confine his remarks to the motion.

"Then we are being rationed." Mr. Diefenbaker retorted amid cries of "withdraw" from the Liberal benches.

DR. FAUTEUX said he was willing to do anything possible to [illegible] decorum and dignity of the chamber but "there are some things I won't stand and can't stand and that is bringing the speaker into the debate."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he "most certainly" would withdraw the remark if the speaker took it as an aspersion.

He then charged that the government had become [illegible] and [illegible] it could "rule and [illegible] the house.

Mr. Graydon charged that the government was "afraid to face the issues which concern the people of Canada."

He charged that CCF members, in supporting the government were [illegible] them to say that they would agree to the imposition of controls on wages and agricultural as well as those they sought on price levels.

"It is about time," he said, "the CCF party quit playing hypocritical politics with respect to the high cost of living."

Mr. King, concluding the debate, said it was the government's responsibility to arrange the legislative program "no matter what attitude" the opposition adopted.

HE WAS PREPARED to see that party leaders had a chance to speak even if, as was apparent, the debate had to continue. But after they had spoken the house should turn to consideration of the Geneva trade agreements and the dollar-saving measures which had prompted the government to call it into session.

CPR Finances Declared Sound

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Col. J. L. Ralston, senior Maritimes counsel in the national freight rate inquiry, declared today the Canadian Pacific is in sound financial condition.

Continuing his final submission for the Maritimes against a general 30-per-cent freight rate increase, Col. Ralston told the Board of Transport Commissioners the company was in better position today than in 1939 or any time in the 1930s.

Col. Ralston said most business men examing the CPR's financial figures would think that "the transformation in the financial position of the CPR between 1939 and 1946 would be something that would justify optimism and confidence."

He said the CPR had underestimated its 1947 gross revenues in early submissions to the board.

Forced Landings No Damages

BIG DELTA, Alaska, Dec. 9—(AP)—Two planes carrying United States army personnel and equipment used in Alaskan Manoeuvres have been forced down by motor trouble without injury to occupants or damage to the craft, army officials announced here yesterday.

Faulty carburetors were said responsible for a forced landing last Friday at Northway, Alaska, of a C-82 packet ship carrying 14 soldiers and a four-man crew.

Lt.-Col. Roy E. Moore said:

"Soldiers who had experienced great difficulty during practice donning of parachutes were all ready to jump within 20 seconds after the pilots order of prepare to jump had echoed through the ship."

The plane pilot safely landed the big "flying boxcar" within four minutes, however, realizing that a parachute jump would be dangerous in the frigid, uninhabited country.

Motor trouble also forced down a twin-engined transport with its crew of four, a loaded jeep and trailer and four soldiers aboard Nov. 30.

Details were not available except that the landing was made after one of the plane's engines conked out at 11,000 feet. The pilot brought it to a successful, though hazardous, landing on an emergency strip at Watson Lake, 205 miles north of Fort Nelson, B.C.

Divorce Decrees

Two decrees absolute of divorce were granted in supreme court Monday by Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin. The decrees were granted to Florence E. M. Davies from Glyn V. Davies, and to Charles E. Williams from Mary A. E. Williams.

Britain Won't Alter Sentence on Japs

OTTAWA, Dec. 9—(CP)—External Affairs Minister St. Laurent officially disclosed late yesterday that the British government will not be able to alter the commutation of death sentences of the two Japanese officers convicted of war crimes in Hong Kong prisoner-of-war camps.

He released the British government's reply to the Canadian request for reasons for commuting the sentences and the reply said that the matter was one within the discretion of the confirming officer—in this case the general officer commanding Hong Kong.

The reply added that this officer "cannot be asked to disclose the grounds for his decision."

Fund for Skater Past Halfway Mark

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. —(CP)— The Mayor of Ottawa fund for Barbara Ann Scott, world champion figure skater passed the half-way mark yesterday when $1,227 was contributed, bringing the total to $3,950.

The fund's objective is $7,000, to be used to send Miss Scott, her mother and trainer to the European and world figure skating championships at Prague, Czechoslovakia and Davos, Switzerland.

The tuberculosis death rate among Indians in Alberta is forty times higher than among white people.

Union Agrees To Extension

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. —(AP)— A Congress of Industrial Organizations Union agreed yesterday to a government request for a 30-day postponement of a threatened strike at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic energy plant.

Warren Morgan, a union official, told reporters the request was made by the federal mediation and conciliation service. A strike of 3,000 employes of the Oak Ridge plant was scheduled to begin at midnight Tuesday.

The union, the United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers of America, has been negotiating for a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase and other concessions.

Morgan said the union agreed to the request for a 30-day extension in its contract to permit negotiations to continue without a work stoppage.

Rate Increases On Coastal Ships

VICTORIA, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Passenger and automobile rate increases ranging between 10 and 13 per cent went into effect yesterday on British Columbia coastal ships of the Canadian Pacific, and Canadian National Steamships and Union Steamships Co.

A spokesman said the increase was due to higher operating costs. It does not apply to services to the United States.

Finds Lost Ring 30 Years Later

HARDISTY, Dec. 9. — A diamond ring owned by Mrs. M. Anderson now of Hardisty, which was lost about 30 years ago in Everett Wash., has been found more than 1,000 miles from where it was lost

A son of Mrs. Anderson's, then a baby, was playing with the ring and apparently lost it in a chair. A search was made, but the ring was not found and Mrs. Anderson had long since given up hope of finding it. The chair had been re-upholstered twice and shipped to Alberta eight years ago

The chair was recently discarded by Mrs. Anderson and some of her grandchildren used it in their playhouse in Hardisty. Then a short time ago the lost ring was discovered in a sand pile beneath the chair.

Plan Uniformity Of City Charters

Uniformity of city charters in Alberta is being aimed at by the provincial government and steps will be taken soon to have the attorney-general's department draft the necessary charter, Hon. C. E Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs revealed Monday on his return from conferences in Red Deer, Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Drumheller.

All city councils interviewed in the course of his trip agreed that a uniform charter would be desirable, Mr. Gerhart said Only two cities are still to be approached Edmonton and Wetaskiwin, but conferences would be arranged with them as soon as is convenient he said.

Suggestions that the city charter to be adopted by all Alberta cities should be drafted by a committee containing representatives from each city, in order that local autonomy be preserved had been made, Mr Gerhart said, but the cities seemed to feel that it would be simpler if the attorney-general's department drafted the legislation and submitted it for approval or otherwise.

"It is to be hoped that the same measure of agreement may be found on the terms of the proposed legislation as there was in the suggestion that it should be prepared," the minister said.

Relates Origin Of India Races

Racial groups in India came originally from the same race as Canadians according to Prof. E. E. Woods, who spoke to members of the Kiwanis club at a luncheon in the Macdonald hotel Monday.

Prof. Woods, who has spent 38 years in India, is a former principal and professor of physics at Bombay University. He said most of India's population was employed at agriculture.

The guest speaker was introduced by Horace Griffiths. Club president Roy Henry was chairman.

Plan Discussion Wanham Project

Allam, superintendent, Soldiers' Settlement and VLA; and G. W. Shewchuk, district agriculturalist, Spirit River.

Makes New Ruling

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP) President Truman ruled yesterday all contracts for sale or lease of public lands must contain a clause reserving government ownership of any uranium, thorium and other fissionable materials discovered on the land.

Receives Award

ELK POINT, Dec 9. — At a meeting of the First Elk Point Boy Scouts Troop Leader Sydney Kates was selected as scout-of-the-month on the basis of his achievements in scout work. Sydney was awarded the Gold Cord for having earned 18 proficiency badges.

Scout Master Joe Jacobson complimented the Sea Gull Patrol, under the leadership of Patrol Leader Carl Hall, for having won the honor pennant for November

Old Timers Group Selects Officers

A. W. Holmes was elected president of the Northwestern Utilities Old Timers' Association, at a meeting held in the gas company offices recently

E. W. Bell was named vice-president, and C. E. White, secretary-treasurer

A constitution was drawn up, debated and passed. It was decided annual dinner of the organization would be held in the Macdonald hotel during January

The tuberculosis death rate among Indians in Alberta is forty times higher than among white people

Finds Satisfaction In Bigger Returns

Only note of satisfaction found by O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture, at the Dominion-provincial agricultural production conference in Ottawa last week, was the assurance by the Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion minister of agriculture, that adjustments would be made in producer returns to compensate for the unfavorable effects resulting from removal of subsidies and price ceilings from coarse grains and meats

The conference "met and concluded in an atmosphere of uncertainty and confusion," Mr. Longman said

The confusion resulted from Britain's lack of credits with which to buy Canadian or American goods. This meant that the main purpose of calling the conference to set production quotas for the coming year was nullified.

"However, notwithstanding the uncertainty of the moment, but having regard for the urgent need for food, not only in Britain but throughout the world, the farmers of Alberta are urged to produce as much as they attempted to produce last year and as much more as they possibly can," Mr. Longman said.

While world food authorities are conferring at the moment and while the governments of Great Britain, Canada and the United States, now in session, will make decisions vital to the Canadian agricultural economy, we must "without condoning the mistakes of the past, exercise patience," he said.

"One cannot attend such a conference and learn that millions of ill-fed people in Britain and elsewhere are anxious and willing to buy foodstuffs that Canada can produce and supply but are unable to do so for lack of dollars, without feeling that such a situation constitutes more than a financial problem," he added

The situation not only threatens stability of Canadian agriculture but is closley associated with establishing world peace, he stressed.

A Smooth RIDE MADE Smoother

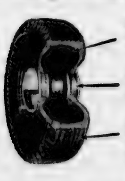
DeSoto

GIVES YOU SMOOTHER, SAFER MOTORING WITH THE NEW Super Cushion TIRES ON DESOTO SAFETY-RIM WHEELS

THE FAMOUS smooth-riding qualities of De Soto reach a new high with the revolutionary new Super Cushion tires as standard equipment on all models.

These unique, new-design tires are fully inflated at only 24 pounds air pressure yet they carry 26% more air volume than ordinary tires. They cushion the car against crosswise shocks — the softer tires taking the jars when they hit stones or rough pavement — something no other tires have previously done.

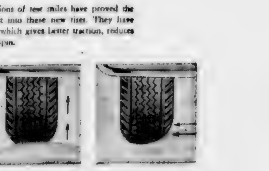
Combined with the famous DeSoto "Safety-Rim" wheels, these tires set a new standard of safety. They run cooler which lessens the chance of a blowout. Should a blowout occur, the deflated tire stays on the "Safety-Rim" wheel — even at high speeds — allowing safe, straight stops.



COMFORT — Lower air pressure and 26% greater air volume greatly reduce road vibration — give you the smoothest ride in DeSoto history.

SAFETY — New DeSoto "Safety-Rim" wheels are one inch wider to fit these bigger volume tires. They combine to set a new standard of motoring safety.

LONG LIFE — Millions of test miles have proved the extra mileage built into these new tires. They have more road contact which gives better traction, reduces tire-wearing wheelspin.



Chrysler Corporation engineers have done wonders to cushion cars against up and down shocks (left). Lateral, or crosswise, shock had never been satisfactorily absorbed until Super-Cushions were produced. These bigger, more cushioned tires soak up lateral shock (right) giving a smoother, steadier ride.

Many Nations Pay Off Master Spies In Europe

By Lionel Shapiro

NEW YORK, (NANA) — Not since 1938, when German secret agents honeycombed Europe and America and British agents concentrated their efforts on Hitler's Reich, has the business of spying been as active as it is today. It ranks second to the black market at Europe's most lucrative clandestine industry.

The principal difference between pre-war spying and today's is this: In 1938, secret agents were mostly in the pay of the governments for which they worked; it was then a highly dangerous, low-paid job which made great demands on the patriotism of agents as well as on their skill. In today's Europe the top agents have no loyalties except to their own pocketbooks; they steal secrets from any country and sell to any other country. They are merely clearing houses for confidential information.

By and large, the romantic aspects of spying have gone out of the business. In today's Europe, a master spy is a man who lives in substantial luxury in one of the best hotels in a European capital. His calling card is on file in the military intelligence sections of the foreign embassies of that capital. He is known to the secret service of the foreign embassies of that capital. He is known to the secret service of the country in which he lives. He does no spying on his own hook. He merely buys and sells, and considers himself a highly respectable member of the community in which he lives.

No Connecting Group

Today's master spy—that is, the more affluent type of master spy—has no formal organization. His business comes to him as naturally as it comes to a well-known shop. Ttake, for instance, one big deal which was recently consummated in Europe by one of the more widely known master spies. It was engineered this way:

A minor employee engaged in a research project in a European country found himself in need of money. He managed to photograph the blueprints of a secret weapon for the purpose of selling these to a rival government. He sent these blueprints to a friend in a neighboring capital, and the friend got in touch with the master spy—as a man with a good literary manuscript might seek out a literary agent.

The master spy made up a catalogue of the information, and offered it for sale to the intelligence sections of other countries. After a good deal of bargaining, he sold the information to the highest bidder.

Not infrequently, an intelligence section will suggest to a master spy that it would like information on a research project in a certain conutry. The master spy never goes about such a job himself. If he has connection in that country he will promise to do his best to get the information. If he has no connection, he may suggest a colleague in another capital who mioght have access to the information. Only when the stakes are extermemly high will he indulge in anything approaching cloak-and-dagger operations.

Dream Of All, Too

The top dream of every master spy is to make a financial killing and retire from the business. Routine information such as the plant capacity of a country to produce ordinary weapons such as shells and tanks draws a top figure of $2,000 and as little as $50.

The information most in demand is the extent of Russia's progress in atomic energy. There are several governments who will pay $1,000,000 for absolute proof of the exact stage reached in Russia's atomic-energy research. For blueprints of the bomb on which Russia is working, the prize is much higher. Blueprints of America's bomb, I was told, would not bring nearly as high a price, because Russian intelligence sections are notoriously close-fisted when it comes to handing out cash.

When business is bad, some master spies pick up extra money by "agenting" black-market weapons.

In every country between France and the agents of these movements scour Europe for black-market supplies. Master spy has been circulating informaton to the effect that he knows where he can put his finger on three Sherman tanks in brand-new condition. The black market operator who owns the tanks is apparently having storage trouble and would like to get rid of them.

IN TWO LESSONS

The salesman stopped his car at a farm house and asked the way to the nearest hotel. The farmer pointed down the road.

"You turn left at the school house, he advised. "Then you go straight ahead till you get to Gad Shor's house. Then you take the left fork in the road and keep on for five miles.

The salesman nodded.

"That's clear enough," he said. "And where does that bring me?"

The farmer smiled.

"Wal," he announced, "that brings you right back to where we're standing now. Right here."

The salesman's eyes popped.

"Right here!" he echoed. "But I don't understand. "Why should I come back here?"

The farmer shifted his plug of tobacco.

"To get the rest of the directions," he explained. "If I told you them all at once, you might get confused."

INTERNATIONAL EVENTS AFFECT CANADA

A. E. Arscott, President, The Canadian Bank of Commerce, says: This Country Could Aid Britain and Europe

INCREASE OF $108,000,000 IN LOANS OF BANK

Reported by S. M. Wedd
Vice President and General Manager

At the Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, held in the Head Office of the Bank in the City of Toronto, December 9th, Mr. Allan E. Arscott, C.B.E., President, and Mr. Stanley M. Wedd, Vice-President and General Manager, presented the Annual Statement of the Bank's operations in the past year, together with a review of business conditions. Mr. Arscott's address to the meeting follows, in part:

The records of production in our industrial and manufacturing plants have been excellent resulting in substantially larger pay-rolls to employees and setting new high marks in the volume and variety of goods placed on domestic and foreign markets. Our satisfaction with these results is tempered in some degree, however, by crop yields in many sections of the country lower than those of last year and by a decline in the output of some minerals to even less than the requirements of essential needs.

Manufacturing and industrial units have continued to expand, but many capital investment programmes planned during the past two years, both for new buildings and replacements of machinery, are not yet completed owing to delays occasioned by material shortages and the lack of adequate skilled labour. With the new regulations recently announced for curtailing imports of machinery, equipment and other materials which are obtainable only with payment of United States dollars, these programmes for expansion will doubtless be further delayed.

Notwithstanding all the difficulties which have been and which remain to be overtaken in domestic trade, the dollar volume of sales generally has been maintained at a high level. There are signs, however, of more selective buying by the public, and on more extended terms of payment.

FOREIGN TRADE

Foreign trade increased to record proportions. The combined figures of exports and imports for the first ten months of this year exceeded $4 billion; movements of Canadian products abroad—in dollar terms—overbalancing Canada's purchases from other countries. The dollar volume of this year's exports is practically double that of pre-war times. While this in itself is a notable development, it must be remembered that in part at least it has been of an unusual character since a sizable portion of our exports has been financed internally.

Canada's trade, in manufactured goods and in agricultural and other basic products, depends for activity on the prosperity of other nations. Before the second world war, Canada ranked high in trading operations among all the nations of the world—fourth in exports and eighth in imports—a commendable position compared with other world-trading countries. Unfortunately we are faced now with the fact that, as a result of the war, many of our important customers are unable to buy from us because they lack acceptable means of payment or are so impoverished that they cannot produce goods for export to Canada and elsewhere to balance their imports. This all means, as I have mentioned above, that we have had to finance internally a portion of these exports ourselves or go without a market for them.

The destruction which took place in Europe during the war years has left the peoples of these countries temporarily in a condition where they cannot achieve complete recovery without assistance from the countries abroad that are able to help.

Of primary importance is the effective restoration of the production of foodstuffs, i.e., bread grain and other cereals, to assist these people to regain the physical stamina necessary to manufacture and produce at least on pre-war levels. The second essential is the restoration of manufacturing, and to accomplish this these countries should be equipped with adequate machinery to replace that which was destroyed by the war. Until they are producing not only for their own needs but also an exportable surplus, temporary assistance will have to be given them, whether by loans or by outright gifts.

MARSHALL PLAN

There has been proposed, but so far only in broad outline, a plan by Mr. Marshall, the Secretary of State for the United States, which envisages rendering aid to the wartorn countries on a basis which will allow them to re-establish their industries and their agricultural production. Sixteen European nations participated in a submission of their requirements under this proposal to the United States and other American countries. While nothing yet has been definitely settled, it is encouraging that determined efforts are now being made to help these countries to get a fresh start.

Canada already has provided substantial aid, and while it has not yet been indicated what part we shall play in the so-called Marshall Plan, we are in a position to participate to a greater or lesser degree depending to some extent on our balance of trade with the United States. Considering our resources and population in comparison with others, we have given great assistance in an endeavour to restore an effective economy to those countries which were severely affected by the war. Owing to the accelerated drain on our reserve of United States dollars, however, we were faced with the necessity of devising some means to support temporarily, and ultimately adjust, our unfavourable balances of trade. In this connection it is reassuring to note that in the proposals now under consideration in the United States for giving aid to the European countries, it is indicated that supplies may be purchased in the other countries of the American continents, which should help our trade position.

In this spirit it is suggested that attention be directed to our resources and production facilities with a view to determining the maximum quantities that can be allocated abroad. Time is an important factor and for a while it may be necessary to conserve in home consumption, if Canada is to share to the extent that could be reasonably expected in this present world crisis.

PRICES

Lower crop yields and the withdrawal of subsidy payments to which I have referred, have collectively contributed to the rise in prices. Upward adjustments in wages to compensate for higher cost of living are also a major influence on the cost of production and distribution with resultant effects on price levels. In the main these are the chief elements that combine to accentuate the upward movement of prices. The extent to which they may rise depends on how soon production catches up with demand or consumer buying tapers off as a result of high prices.

Bearing in mind present high prices it is more important than ever that business administration should exercise constant and close examination of inventories and accounts receivable. Also the relation of sales volume to unit production should be carefully watched; the turnover of goods should be examined in terms of unit as well as dollar volume because under existing conditions the sales volume may be up substantially in comparison to the previous year and thus appear to be satisfactory but unless considered in relation to unit volume the point at which business turns from a profit into a loss is apt to be obscured.

It is important that adequate working capital should be maintained if high prices on the one hand continue and on the other hand to serve as a cushion against the possibility of losses which we have seen occur at other times when "out-of-balance" positions have had to be corrected.

Earnings should be carefully analyzed with the view to ascertaining the extent of non-recurring factors which have tended to swell the total. Under present abnormal operating conditions a misconception may develop as to the proportion of actual trading profit that goes to make up the aggregate earnings.

The changes that have taken place in the past year in Canada invite one further comment. It is a well-known fact that, in the course of production, machinery and equipment must be replaced if output is to be maintained at a high economic level. If many of the price increases witnessed to-day have an element of permanency about them then programmes for repair, maintenance and replacement should be based on existing rather than on pre-war patterns.

CULTIVATE TRADE

While I have said that we must be prepared to assist in every way possible in rehabilitation of Europe, including Great Britain, consideration should be given also to cultivating and developing in these countries and elsewhere new markets while we are still engaged in giving direct assistance to some of them. Our potential market is great. While exploring the field for further markets, we must keep close watch on the prices of what we have to sell to ensure that we can compete on a reasonable footing. Our internal policies on wage and material costs must be geared not only to domestic conditions but also in recognition of the fact that we will be in keen competition with other countries both as regards price and quality.

In the course of my remarks I have outlined what appears to be the effect of conditions, as we see them to-day, on our trade and commerce. As to the long range view, the progress made at the Geneva Conference to set a pattern for freer trade was substantially beyond most expectations. There emerged a series of agreements among the attending nations covering a wide range of tariff changes which, if carried out to the full intent, will bring about great advancement in world trade, and should benefit Canada materially. It is recognized, however, that countries with currently unfavourable trade positions may have to employ import regulations and quotas until this situation is corrected, but with the working out of the long range plans we may look for a resumption of freer interchange of goods.

Although we have many difficult and perplexing problems to be solved when we consider the over-all material well-being throughout the Dominion all must agree that we are indeed fortunate. The hearts of the people in this highly favoured Continent assuredly will go out in full sympathy to the people of Britain enduring measures of severe austerity and to the tragic plight of the famished nations of Continental Europe facing again the rigours of winter with wholly inadequate resources of food, fuel and clothing, and living in constant fear of revolutionary violence and civil war.

It is disappointing that the necessity has arisen for the reimposition of restrictive measures which affect the course of business and personal affairs, but we must remember that there is an unusual situation in the world to-day from which we cannot stand aloof. The common sense of the citizens of Canada, I am sure, will prevail and they will discipline themselves to accept the restraints which are necessary to help rebuild the shattered fabric of European civilization, upon which the maintenance of world peace itself so manifestly depends.

GENERAL MANAGER ADDRESSES MEETING

The Annual Statement of the Bank which is before you indicates some important changes in comparison with the figures of twelve months ago. In the first place the Bank's holdings of the securities of the Dominion Government maturing within two years have been reduced by over $197,000,000. This is largely accounted for by the Dominion Government having paid off their special bank borrowings represented by what were called certificates of deposit. As against this movement bank loans and investments in other than Dominion Government securities have shown a substantial increase.

LOANS UP $108,800,000

In the past year the total of our loans has increased by $108,800,000, of which $90,000,000 occurred in our commercial loans in Canada. This is a reflection of the increased activity in business generally.

Dominion and Provincial Government deposits have been reduced by nearly $40,000,000. Deposits not bearing interest are down some $57,800,000, which indicates the quickening of the employment of current funds in larger inventory positions and plant and general building operations.

Interest-bearing deposits, which are mostly personal Savings accounts, are again quite sharply up and now total $770,000,000, an increase of $73,000,000 in the twelve months.

The total of Letters of Credit outstanding shows a substantial increase, rising from $34,000,000 a year ago to $46,200,000 at the present time. This movement is an indication of continued trading activity in the export and import field.

WIDE INTEREST IN CANADA

It was quite evident to senior representatives of the Bank who have visited many countries during the past two years that there is a continued widespread interest in Canada outside of our own borders. These visits were made for the purpose of obtaining first-hand knowledge of post-war conditions abroad and to re-establish banking and trade connections which had been interrupted by the war. I am sure that Canada as well as the Bank has benefited by the renewed and new contacts which have been made by our representatives in various parts of the world.

In this connection I would also mention the Bank's Monthly Commercial Letter. The major purpose of this publication, first issued in 1915, is to make available information on Canadian affairs which the Bank collects from its branches across Canada, together with data from other authoritative sources. Judging from the many requests which we receive from Government agencies and business and professional people for copies of our Monthly Letter, it is filling a very useful purpose.

This year the earnings available for dividends amounted to $3,201,000 which is $350,000 more than last year. Dividends paid out and provided for, and the extra distribution recently authorized, amount in all to $3,000,000, and $201,108 has been added to the balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account.

Each year there has been a gradual increase in the number of shareholders until we now have some 13,070 shareholders, an increase of about 400 since a year ago. There are now 8,473 shareholders in Canada, 3,244 in the United Kingdom and possessions, 1,173 in the United States, and 180 elsewhere.

TRIBUTE TO STAFF

The staff of the Bank now numbers just over 7,200, about equally divided as to men and women. This large group is the working force upon whom we depend for the operation of the Bank in the day-to-day transactions. I cannot express too strongly our commendation of the high quality of their services and co-operation.

At this point I should like to make special reference to the Pension Fund of the Bank in relation to the staff. The Fund was started originally some 55 years ago when the staff of the entire Bank was less than the staff of one of our larger branches now. It is interesting to know that for this long period the staff of this Bank have enjoyed security through the Pension Fund, which is maintained by contributions by the staff themselves augmented by generous assistance from the Bank.

Always Tired? Nervous? Maybe It's Breakdown

By Arthur J. Snider

CHICAGO. — Are you always tired? Do you dread to start the day? Do you become all in on the job without going all out?

Then you may be walking around with a first-class nervous breakdown and not know it, says Dr. Walter C. Alvarez of the Mayo clinic.

He told doctors taking a Chicago Medical society postgraduate course the diagnosis often is missed because nervous breakdowns don't show up on laboratory tests or X-rays.

Only by careful questioning can it be recognized, Dr. Alvarez said.

Too often, he explained, doctors grasp at "diagnostic straws" and order a tooth or tonsil removed, the sinuses worked over, the appendix, gall bladder, tube or ovary taken out.

Give B-1 Shots

"Then they give shots of B-1 and what-not, estrogens for the women and testosterons for the men," he added. "Perhaps these appear for a time to help and then the patient slumps again."

Still tired of being tired, these people then make a pilgrimage to Rochester "hoping that I will find the cause that others have overlooked."

"I hate to see these people come in because I know that usually I must disappoint them," Dr. Alvarez said.

While some cases of chronic fatigue simply are due to patients' fretting and fussing, letting things annoy them, smoking or drinking too much and staying up half the night, the most common cause is a nervous breakdown, he added.

Two Types Listed

Nervous breakdowns are of two types, one that is earned through overwork and the other "that comes out of a clear sky because of a bad nervous heredity."

There is one easy test to distinguish the two.

"Those with a nervous break due to bad heredity often feel fatigued on waking in the morning," Dr. Alvarez said.

"The man who earns his fatigue by overwork gets it usually in the afternoon," Dr. Alvarez said. "By four o'clock he would like to quit and go home. It is the work he has to do after he is tired out which does him great harm and eventually brings a breakdown."

"Another helpful point is. Did the patient get a vacation, and did it help?

Rest Is Important

"The normal man who has overworked may be well after a month's rest, while the man with a poor nervous heredity may rest for a year or two and see no improvement.

"The type of breakdown due to a poor nervous heredity is, of course, the dangerous one," Dr. Alvarez said.

There is some hope for curing the normal breakdown, however.

"In many cases," Dr. Alvarez said, "a vacation will start a tired person on the road to health. Evening work must be stopped. Conflicts and annoyances must be avoided."

Which might mean, he said that a mother-in-law "may have to get out of the house and into her own apartment."

Market Reports

Stock-Market Summary

TORONTO.—Stocks improved moderately in substantially reduced volume. Industrials balanced gains and losses.

MONTREAL.—Industrials were about mixed and changes were fractional in quiet trading. Pluses predominated in mines.

NEW YORK.—Recovery shift extended selectively. Short covering and reinvestment demand tended to overshadow year-end tax selling. Canadian issues quiet.

CALGARY.—Oil stocks were better in tone but trading slow.
